SUMMARY.

Field-Marshal Haig reports that the British have continued their progress south-east of Messines.

The enemy's trench system and the neighbourhood of La Potterie Farm, on a front of half a mile, was captured.

A French communique says there has been considerable reciprocal artillery activity north of the Somme and in the region of Cerny.

The German official message says: "Our effective fire near Festubert, Loos, and Lens prevented British attacks."

General Sir Herbert Plumer has complimented all ranks on the soldierly conduct during the capture of the Messines ridge.

The precision with which the orders were carried out enabled the programme to be fulfilled to the last detail with minimum losses.

The New Zealanders have been given the prominent mention because they were first to enter Messines.

The Australians likewise played a definite part. They attacked and penetrated as far forward as any troops.

Unlike Bullecourt, the casualties at Messines were phenomenally light, and many of them very slight.

Mr. Bean says it is no secret that the whole attack has been successful beyond the limits of original expectations.

Italian messages report the capture of several more points of strategic importance, and the repulse of enemy attacks.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says that the situation at Kronstadt continues serious.

Agitators have reversed the local council's decision to submit to the Provisional Government, and announce that Kronstadt is independent.

A very strong feeling has arisen in Petrograd against Kronstadt. The Provisional Government has issued an ultimatum.

Britain's reply to the Russian Note sets forth the Allies' war aims.

"Beyond all," the reply says, "we seek to secure happiness and contentment, and take away all legitimate causes for future war."

Private telegrams received in Rome state that the political situation in Germany is darkening.

The failure to conclude a separate peace with Russia and military disasters have produced universal irritation and discouragement.

Mr. Bonar Law stated that the daily average expenditure for the first nine weeks of the year was £7,884,000, including loans.

Sir Robert Borden, Canadian Prime Minister, introduced the Conscription Bill in the Dominion House of Commons.

Canada had, he said, pledged itself to provide half a million men, and that pledge must be made good.

Voluntaryism was failing, and if the divisions at the front were not to become extinct men must be recruited compulsorily.

According to an Amsterdam message, Austria semi-officially denies that a deputation has gone to Russia to negotiate for peace.

It is reported from New York that the Republic of San Domingo has severed relations with Germany.

Mr. Holman, accompanied by Mr. Wade (Agent-General) visited the French front. The visit to the Australian front has been postponed.

A statement regarding the Irish Convention was made in the House of Commons by the Prime Minister.

An attempt to hold a prohibited meeting at Cork on Sunday night culminated in a riot.

The United States Senate Judiciary Committee is considering an amendment of the Constitution designed to permit of nation-wide prohibition.

General Jonnart, formerly Governor-General of Algeria, has arrived in France, with, it is believed, plenipotentiary powers.

"This and other events induces the belief that Greece is nearing the end of her tether," an Athens message says.

The Prime Minister intends to introduce a short bill in the Federal Parliament to amend the Public Service Act.

The object of the amendment is to remove the age limitation for returned soldiers desirous of entering the Commonwealth service.

The Federal Cabinet yesterday considered a scheme for the repatriation of soldiers.

The proposals for the establishment of the shipbuilding industry were discussed by Mr. Hughes with union representatives yesterday.

The conference lasted all the afternoon, and will be resumed again to-day.

A statement as to the Government's intentions regarding recruiting will be made by Mr. Hughes in the Federal Parliament to-morrow.

The suspension of sectarian strife during the forthcoming Victorian elections was urged at a farmers' conference in Melbourne yesterday.

A motion was carried that the Scripture in Schools Council and Catholic Federation be asked not to contest their claims at present.

Queensland is at present sending supplies of butter to Victoria, Western Australia, and Tasmania.

Discussion on the cases of the I.W.W. prisoners was concluded at the P.L.L. Conference last night.

A committee was appointed to collect evidence for a petition to Parliament for the appointment of a Royal Commission.

The Victorian floods are subsiding somewhat, but vast areas of low-lying land are still under water.

It is expected that the flood waters of the Murray and Goulburn rivers will descend upon Echuca to-day.

The position at Echuca is regarded as serious, and the people along the river banks have vacated their dwellings.

Labour troubles are seriously interfering with the work of administering the Northern Territory.

Mr. Justice Powers may go to the Territory to decide the questions at issue.

The political crisis in Western Australia is still unsettled.

It is probable that a conference will be held between representatives of each of the three parties.

Owing to labour shortage, the Wheat Board has appealed to farmers to assist in the work of re-conditioning wheat stacks.

THE TERM "WOOLLEN" IS NOT ALWAYS SYNONYMOUS
WITH "ALL WOOL."

To-day Blankets are being bought and sold as Woollen goods that are not all wool.

Buyers are deceived by a clever admixture of cotton and shoddy, which makes possible a lower price, but also means low quality and value as well.

The best protection is afforded by a purchase of Blankets that are guaranteed "All Wool," and we quote here Vicars' Marrickville Blankets as the best examples of "all wool" goods.

VICARS' MARRICKVILLE BLANKETS, Large Single Bed Size, measures about 81 x 68 inches, available in White or Grey, in Special Quality Pure Merino Wool.
30/ per pair.

VICARS' MARRICKVILLE BLANKETS, Three-quarter Bed size, measures 90 x 72 inches, available in white and Grey, a beautifully finished quality, weighs approximately 7lb.
37/6 per Pair.

VICARS' MARRICKVILLE BLANKETS, Full Double-bed size, measures about 90 x 81 inches, available in White or Grey, weighs approximately 9lb. Quality unsurpassed.

JUST ARRIVED
FROM OLD ENGLAND,
A CONSIGNMENT OF

SAFETY RAZOR BLADES
& HOLLOW-GROUND RAZORS.

It's a red-letter day when a merchant receives a shipment of steel goods now, because Steel is Scarce—owing to the wants of the War Lords, and the wastage ashore and afloat—not forgetting also that ships to carry cargo are not as numerous as of yore.

Small wonder, then, we're happy, is it? for nobody knows WHEN the next will come along this way. And of course, as Steel goods get scarcer they'll naturally become dearer—a plain, indisputable fact, which should determine you to purchase your Hollow Ground Razor, or Safety Razor BLADES, right now, at

NOCK AND KIRBY'S
NOTED LOW PRICES.

COME TO SNOW'S TO-DAY AND REVIEW THIS ARMY
OF NEW GOODS.

Some of the Vineyards of California have electric bells in the bedrooms of the homes connected with thermometers in the grapery houses, which ring an alarm when the temperature falls near to the danger point.

We cannot control the ever-changing temperature of the Seasons, but we can prepare for them.

This announcement is to be considered as the ringing of the bell calling attention to the fine stocks of Winter Wearables at

SNOW'S

So far as close inspection can disclose, every article in each of the 20 Specialty Shops belongs here by right—the right of good, honest quality.
We are living up to our reputation for working full time in getting values that are real money-savers.

EVERYBODY WANTS GABARDINES.

SNOW'S HAVE GABARDINES
ENOUGH TO SUPPLY EVERYBODY.

Were we to go into the market to-day we could not procure many of the shades in this collection, and we certainly could not buy at the prices at which they are now selling. However, Snow's believe in selling as they buy, so the advantages of these savings are yours.

NOTE THESE POPULAR PRICES.

40in GABARDINES, in shades of Tan, Fawn, Navy, Brown, and Light Grey—are moderately priced at 2/11½.

"SHE IS WITHOUT AN EQUAL."
London Daily Telegraph.

Read what the Age (Melbourne) had to say of her farewell appearance at the Melbourne Tivoli:—

Miss Ada Reeve's farewell appearance at the Tivoli Theatre on Saturday night was the occasion of a striking demonstration of enthusiasm. During her stay in Melbourne this gifted artiste has achieved a measure of popularity almost without parallel. Her artistry alone is quite sufficient to place her on the pedestal of fame, but her splendid efforts on behalf of Australia's fighting men have done more than that. They have endeared her to the hearts of the people, and the roomsful of cheers which marked her final appearance were undoubtedly inspired by genuine affection. Most of those who were there on Saturday night had heard her many times before, and it was manifest that they had come to show their appreciation of her unremitting efforts to brighten the lot of the soldiers. When she first stepped upon the stage there was a veritable thunder of applause, and so insistent were the recalls that she sang nearly a dozen songs before the curtain was lowered for the last time.

WOMEN WORKERS.

POSITION AFTER THE WAR.

The position of women in industry, both at present and in the near future, is one of moment to the nation at large, as well as to the new armies of industrial women who, under war conditions, have been pouring into the labour market. Will they be permitted to continue in employment? Will they interfere with the return of men to their former occupations? These questions are being asked on every side, especially in the United Kingdom, and answers to them are not easy to find. At the present Labour conference fears are being expressed that the women who have occupied positions previously held by men who have gone to the front will not be inclined to give them up when conditions again become normal. "Certainly not," declared a woman delegate when the subject was mentioned. Before the war there were a million women in Great Britain to whom marriage was unlikely, because there were not enough men to provide each with a husband. After the war the disparity will be greater, owing to the disablement of many surviving bread-winners, large numbers of women will be called upon to support themselves and their families. Woman labour must, therefore, become a much more important factor in every branch of trade and industry.

Persons unversed in industrial questions can hardly realise how largely the solution of these problems depends upon whether women workers are admitted into the various trade-unions or form their own unions. The trade-unions at home, to their credit be it said, responded for the most part to Mr. Lloyd George's appeal to do their part in ensuring an adequate supply of munitions. The shortage, as we know, could only be remedied by a revolution in methods of production. The unions consented to the scheme for the dilution of labour, as well as to the sweeping away of many of the unions' most cherished safeguards and restrictions. But their consent was not given unconditionally. In order to secure it Mr. Lloyd George was compelled to give an unqualified pledge, on behalf, not only of his own department, but of all the departments of the Government, collectively and separately, that the "rules and practices of trades unions" if suspended during the war should be restored when it was over. Students of industrial conditions have not been slow to point out what the attempt loyally to fulfil this pledge would mean to British industry, and in England, at least, the women themselves are beginning to feel a real apprehension. That the rank and file of trade-unionists in Britain still cling to the letter of their treaty with the Government is shown by the resolution passed without debate, and almost without discussion, at the Trade Union Congress a few months ago:—"That this conference reminds the Government that it is pledged unreservedly and constitutionally, and the nation with it, in the most solemn manner, to the restoration after the war of all the rules, conditions, and customs that prevailed in the workshops before the war, and to the abrogation when peace comes of all the changes introduced not only in the national factories and the 4500 controlled establishments, but also in the large number of others to which provisions of the Munitions Acts have been applied."

It seems probable that, sooner or later, those who supported this resolution will be compelled to face the facts. It is obvious that women workers in England, at least, will not submit to pre-war conditions without a struggle. The Government compact, to which the consent of women was not asked, has no binding force upon them. The experiences of the war have awakened the whole body of women workers to a sense of their industrial value. They feel that they have come into a birthright which they have been kept out of too long. "Many employers make no secret of their intention to continue drawing on this reserve of labour," writes a London monthly publication devoted to women's interests; "and they will be approved by thousands who before the war were suspicious of all attempts to widen the sphere of women, but who are now deeply impressed by the necessity of making the most of all the nation's resources if it is to hold its own in the world's markets." Public opinion in the United Kingdom is beginning to realise the difficulties, the animosities and mutual recriminations, which are likely to be the outcome of an attempt to restore all the pre-war checks on production, including the ban on female labour. Attempts may possibly be made to frame some sort of new agreement which shall concede something to women while safeguarding the men's standard rates. Some such agreement will doubtless be desired by the women workers themselves. This hypothesis, of course, applies less to the position of women workers in Australia than to the case of female war workers in the United Kingdom, but the pressure upon women to enter the industrial arena is undoubtedly increasing, and the old ideas as to their not being adapted for certain avenues of employment are vanishing. For many of the new spheres of labour arising out of the new conditions women are found to be quite as well adapted as men. Women workers in every department of trade and industry must, therefore, become a much more important factor than ever they were before. Women are claiming equal political and industrial rights with men, and the question as to whether they are to relinquish any of the positions that they have been called upon to fill as the result of war conditions will undoubtedly prove a somewhat difficult problem to solve.

FOR OUR BRAVE SOLDIERS.

One would hardly think there was anything more to write about socks and soldiers' comforts than has already been done, but I have two suggestions to make. One would be a great boon to legless soldiers, the other is for sending a message worked upon socks.

If those soldiers who have had the misfortune to lose a leg, and have but the stump of it left, were to adopt the following idea they would derive much benefit from it, as it saves a great deal of chafing and pain when walking with an artificial leg. Artificial legs are practically harnessed to the body, while the fleshy stump of the leg goes into the opening of the artificial one. The pressure and rubbing that are caused against the edge of the artificial leg are very painful, as they cause chafing, especially in the summer time. To alleviate this to a great extent is to make by knitting with white double Berlin wool, or thicker, a sort of bag, or what one might describe as a cap. This cap is placed upside down in the opening of the artificial leg, and the edges turned down over the outside, fitting the leg closely and firmly. If necessary an elastic can be run round the edge of the knitting, but this is hardly necessary, for if it is made to fit properly it will keep in position. This protection gives a softness to the edge of the leg, upon which the flesh rests. This cap can be changed and washed every day, or as often as necessary.

Having just completed a pair of socks, and being tired of seeing so many socks with every imaginable coloured stripes, I thought I would alter mine, so with a needle and thread of coloured washing silk I outlined upon the part just below the ribbing, a cross, an anchor, and a heart, thus sending my message, which cannot be lost, of Faith, Hope, and Charity, to some brave unknown soldier. Down the little knitted ridges sideways I worked my coloured thread, keeping as much as possible to those ridges. This took me very little time to outline, and when done it was much admired and was very effective. I worked these designs after I had washed the socks, and then damped them and pressed them with a hot iron. When all was completed I tacked the pair together, attaching a little piece of cardboard with the size marked upon it.

FASHION AS SHE IS.

TAILORED SUITS.

Although coat-frocks—the warm winter coat—play a conspicuous part in the world of dress, it is the ever-favoured coat and skirt that ranks first and foremost. This kind of costume is making an irresistible appeal to all women who are intent upon replenishing their wardrobes for this winter season. It is difficult to rival, let alone excel, in the smartness and up-to-date effect of these tailored suits. The coat with the side-pleated effect is greatly favoured; indeed, it is doubtful whether any style more becoming has been seen for some time. These tailored coats and skirts possess a certain grace and elegance, combined with a particular touch of smartness, that raise them out of the ordinary. The semi-fitting coat shows the new side pleats held in place by novel pocket-straps, superseding the belt of yesterday, and defining the belt-line. The new high-necked effect is finished off by a well-cut collar of velvet or fur, the front fastening consisting of groups of buttons. Smart velvet cuffs and double seams, the latter adorning the front and back of the coat, form the decoration of this simply-designed tailored costume. The skirt accompanying this special coat boasted the latest box-pleats on the hips to match the side line of the coat. Such a suit, carried out in a becoming shade of mole or nigger-brown or the new green tone, looks charming. Quite a novel idea for a tailored suit is the long-coated, graceful effect, fashioned of fine navy suiting or gabardine cloth. The side pleats of the skirted coat were trimmed with four rows of silken braid. The same trimming showed as a border to the smart, dull, gold-stitched collar and cuffs, while a blue belt was worked in the gold stitching. Buttons were noticed across the front of the coat. This coat can be worn either buttoned high to the neck or thrown open in front, according to the wearer's choice. Many of the tailored coats show a clever arrangement of imitation buttonholes and cloth-covered buttons. This latter form of trimming imparts quite an elegant line.

Another example of a winter tailored coat and skirt was carried out in a mole-coloured cloth. It was trimmed with a large square collar of the new shape, cutting rather deep at the back. This collar was of mole-coloured coney, and proved most becoming for a wintry day. The coat was quaintly gathered at the waist-line, showing under a twin-strap waistband. At the sides the belt divided and merged into a flat yoke effect, adding greatly to the slimness of the figure.

There are ever so many various designs and ideas in the suit world. Dressy coats and skirts—the more severe tailored lines—are one and all in the running. A full-pleated skirt in the fashionable dark and becoming green was worn with a rather short and loose coat, provided with long double pocket flaps on either side of the coat. A soft white lawn collar in a three-decker design relieved the neck. Self-covered buttons fastened the coat, similar buttons trimming the cuffs. With this costume a chic little hat of black velour velvet, showing a touch of "poilu" blue, was worn. This kind of suit stands any amount of hard wear, and, besides being thoroughly in keeping with the needs of the present time, it can be worn practically on all occasions.

By the simple addition of a pretty fancy collar or a set of becoming furs and a smart-looking hat, a tailored suit proves far and away a most popular type of toilette. It possesses the distinct recommendation of suiting not only women of all ages but girls. Not only does it show economy combined with good taste, but it really is the secret of being well-dressed under our present circumstances. Later on we shall see some new lines in our latest suits. In many instances they will be more dressy and somewhat elaborate. The coat will be noticed cut on loose, full lines that are most graceful and fit all figures, showing a large square collar trimmed with self-covered buttons and simulated buttonholes. The coat has a narrow waistband that buttons in a somewhat new fashion under the arm. At the back of the coat the belt is raised and forms a kind of fancy yoke effect, helping to break the very straight long line of the coat. The skirt shows pleats at the back, forming a narrow panel effect, which is most becoming. The stitching decoration is one of the favoured features of our coats. It is being used by the best tailors at the present moment.

The new type of girdle waist-belt is cleverly introduced, many being shaped towards the front. Another feature is the rolled-back collar rever, and the suspicion of fulness under the arms is also the latest vogue for autumn and winter models.

Already many of the latest fashion journals are showing delightful spring designs for coats and skirt. Although we are having winter months it will not be long before many of the shops will be displaying up-to-date new models for milder weather. There is a certain charm about the new short coats we shall see later. Other styles show the adaptation of the new Russian idea to the tailored coat, long, loose, and straight of cut, fastening over smartly over-to-one-side, embroidery, soutache, and the new cashmere trimming, showing bold appliques of softly-toned colours, one so often associates with Paisley shawls. These are all to be used as trimmings for suits and frocks alike.

Our skirts are also to be threatened with a new line. The "barrel" or tub silhouette promises to be much-talked-about later on. The skirt shows fulness, and at the hem is slightly "barrelled," that is, the folds seem to fall more inwards than outwards. One of the smartest ideas for useful wear is the jumper coat and skirt. This may be carried out in the fashionable trico, or stockinette material. It proves most useful and practical, and exactly meets to-day's needs.

Separate skirts, that are quite ideal for wearing with blouses or with the ever-useful silken or woollen golf coats, show great distinction, and a certain individuality of design. Many of the skirts are most attractive and graceful.

DRESS ACCESSORIES.

The fashion of the present moment is the lavish use of fine laces, such as Chantilly and shadow lace. This beautiful, fragile fabric may be used in many ways, for furbishing up an evening dress. It proves more than welcome. It may form the long sleeves, train, panniers, tunic, or the long, graceful draperies that one notices on some of the up-to-date skirts for evening wear. Not only is ordinary black, white, or ivory toned lace used for this purpose, but I noticed beautiful makes of lace in gold or dull silver, of very fine texture, white or black Chantilly lace lightly embroidered with threads of dull gold or silver, or even coloured threads. The new coloured bead embroidery, introduced in the designs of the lace, is another trimming de luxe of the moment. In fact, embroidery in woollen or silken designs are playing a conspicuous part. Our skirts, frocks, and hats are all noticed boasting some kind of embroidery decoration. Many of the shades used are quite delightful and beautiful in their colour combination. Persian and Russian designs are very much favoured.

Among other accessories for our wardrobe, proving the topic of interest to most women, are the delightful boudoir caps, matching the "sets." The latter are fashioned either of finest linen lawn, crepe de Chine, or even Georgette crepe, the caps matching in every instance. These becoming boudoir caps are in great request at present, when so many women are down with influenza.

EDITH CAVELL MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

At the executive meeting of the Edith Cavell Memorial Association on Monday, it was announced that the shop which the committee has been occupying for the past three months has been let. The committee is much indebted to Miss Macarthur Onslow for having granted the use of the premises for so long. To-day the shop will be open as usual for the benefit of the fund, but after that date it is necessary for the committee to move to other premises—the corner of Elizabeth-street and the Victoria Arcade, opposite the War Chest Depot. It is hoped that sympathisers with the movement will bear in mind that the shop will be continued for the sale of provisions, and for the serving of tea and light refreshments on each Wednesday.

A home nursing class will commence on June 21 at 7.30 p.m., in the basement of the Town Hall. A first aid class will commence shortly.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

SAUCES.

Most of us are quite aware that it has been said that the English are a people of 40 religions and only one sauce. We are aware of this judgment that has been passed on us; but it can hardly be said that we are resentful of it, else should we undoubtedly make haste to mend our ways. The 40 religions we will not even inquire about—but the one sauce. That indeed is a matter that concerns every housewife in the land. The sauce alluded to is, of course, that we usually designate as "melted butter," and while it may not always appear in its simple guise, it is yet—we may as well allow it at once—invariably the plain foundation sauce to which we add various flavourings, seasonings, or colourings, according to the dish we intend it to accompany to table. Thus, if it is destined to accompany steamed or boiled fish, we add to it a small quantity of anchovy sauce; or we mince a little hard-boiled egg, and stir in. If we intend it to accompany boiled beef or mutton, we add to it, just possibly, a few capers, or, more likely, some chopped-up boiled onions; or we content ourselves with grating nutmeg into it. If it is meant as a sauce for vegetables we are content for it to go in its simple form as "melted butter," while we stir into it a few drops of vanilla or other flavouring, or a little jam or jelly, if the dish it is to grace belongs to the sweets course.

How to make it: It needs to be made carefully, like very many other specially simple dainties, or it can entirely spoil the dish it was intended to grace. Take two tablespoons of butter (less may be used, since it is war-time), two of flour, and a cupful of milk; melt the butter, add the flour (with a tiny pinch of salt in it) very gradually, and blend these two ingredients smoothly together. Add the milk very slowly, and stirring carefully the while; set over the fire and cook slowly for five minutes, stirring constantly. Such a sauce is England's one sauce—"melted butter."

In a small book by M. Gironci, Penelope lately came upon the recipes for making many sauces—in Italian fashion—and she can vouch for it that, having tried a few of them, she decided it is not good for any country, even England, to be too conservative in the matter of sauces.

Here is a recipe for orange sauce that can be well recommended as a change from melted butter. Put into a pan the juice of two large oranges and the grated peel of one, add half a pint of water, an ounce of castor sugar, and an ounce of butter, rolled well in flour. Stir for 10 or 12 minutes. Just before removing from the fire, stir in the juice of one Seville orange.

Another good sauce is named "Sauce Alla Piacentina," and the recipe runs as follows: Cut up one small onion, one small carrot, and one small turnip, fry in boiling butter till browned, add a small bunch of sweet herbs, three or four cloves, one laurel leaf, two ounces of butter, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, and pepper and salt to taste. Stir for nine or ten minutes. Strain through a sieve. Penelope served this sauce with grilled steak, and, although she omitted the laurel leaf, it was well liked as something quite new.

Our well-known bread sauce is not as often used as it deserves to be. Many cooks would have uneasy consciences if they allowed it to go to the table, except in the wake of poultry—or that which we see but little of in Australia—game. Yet, it will render the ordinary and garden leg or shoulder of mutton delicious if only our housekeepers could be prevailed upon to try it.

Tomato sauce is becoming even more widely liked, as it is more often made. An Italian recipe for making it is the following:—Fry with butter one tablespoonful each of finely chopped parsley and onion for seven or eight minutes, add the strained juice of six or eight large, ripe tomatos. Stew over a slow fire for nine or ten minutes.

Before passing from the question of sauces, and reverting to our one plain sauce, it might advantageously be remembered that a few oysters or shrimps, or some minced lobster stirred into it, can transform a plain dinner into an almost festive occasion. And this, even in war time, is sometimes desirable and often necessary.

The fish shops are very plentifully stocked this week, and we are told the trawlers have obtained especially big hauls of deepsea fish, part of which has been distributed in country districts. This is good hearing, and we can look for an increasingly wide distributon of cheap fish among our country cousins when the war is over and labour is less of a consideration than it is to-day. Excellent flathead may be obtained in the city this week for 1s a piece, while bream that seem to have been born but to be fried are selling at 4d and 6d each. Whiting are good at 8d each, and mullet at 8d. For the rest, there is a plentitude of schnapper, leatherjacket, nannegai, and john dory; and, bought at the State fish shops, these are all very cheap substitutes for our dear meat.

In the fruit world one is struck particularly by the goodly appearance of the apples. Huge, rosy-checked, eating ones vie with green and mellow cooking ones, and here and there the hardy russet at 6d a dozen puts in a claim for notice. Oranges also are very plentiful at from 6d to 2s 6d a dozen. Paw-paws and pineapples abound, and excellent strawberries may be bought at 1s 6d and 2s a punnet.

In the vegetable world, one would think the cauliflower had obtained a new lease of life, so plentiful it is. Peas of first-class quality at 3s a peck, French beans 2s 8d, cabbages 4d and 5d, and all the root vegetables at their late prices.

DRAMATIC ART IN SCHOOLS.

Mr. C. Blumer, M.A., principal of the Goulburn High School, writes:—In last week's Women's Page I read with interest an account of the production of "Twelfth Night" at the Girls' High School, North Sydney. You rightly describe such a presentation of a Shakespearian masterpiece as a step in the right direction. It is only fair to one of my staff, Miss C. Buckley, B.A., to state that for three successive years, a Shakespearian comedy has been staged by that lady, for the benefit of our pupils and the general public. It is a fixed custom with us to produce the play that is set for intensive study by third year pupils; and "As You Like It," "Merchant of Venice," and "Midsummer Night's Dream," have been played in due sequence. Probably we shall follow on this year with "Twelfth Night." The cast in our case is filled by our own pupils who by the critical study needed adequately to produce the plays have derived great benefit, while at the same time giving much pleasure to large and appreciative and critical audiences, and incidentally raising considerable sums for patriotic and charitable purposes. Last year's production netted £46. Such study of English as that referred to in your columns of last week, and as we are carrying out here, marks a distinct advance on old-time education.

BABIES NOT WANTED.

Sunday being a beautiful day we decided to take our little girl to the Botanic Gardens for the day. As she is not able to walk yet, and is very heavy to carry, the small folding cart was taken to make things easier (writes W.H.D., Greenwich). We spent a happy time wandering about all the morning, but after lunch were unfortunate enough to meet an official of some sort, who informed us that perambulators were not allowed in the Gardens on Sunday afternoon; in fact, were not allowed in at all without special permission. I was so amazed that I could scarcely speak for some minutes. Then I asked what was the reason for such a regulation. He said he didn't know, but it was written up on the board at the entrance gate. We left immediately, with only a passing glance at the beautiful begonias in the glass-house, which we had intended to inspect during the afternoon. On the board at the entrance gate beneath, "Dogs not admitted," and "Smoking not permitted," was a notice to the effect that "vehicles" were not admitted without special permission. Now there were numerous mongrel dogs wandering about, and many men smoking, but perambulators! How very different. There are many places a woman cannot go because of a young child, but surely there is room in the gardens for babies in their little carts. There is no such objection raised at the new Zoological Park, and in consequence mothers find it possible to enjoy their day's outing; for what pleasure is there in carrying a heavy child about? It is bad for the mother and bad for the child. Could not something be done to remedy this great inconvenience?

MELBOURNE NOTES.

In speaking on the subject of "The Training of Our Girls" at a conference held in connection with the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Miss Glendinning (supervisor of the Free Kindergarten Union) stated that the present training was insufficient, and greater care was required. "If our girls are to do their work as citizens worthily, they must be definitely trained just as boys are," is the opinion of Miss Glendinning. The speaker emphasised the necessity of training girls as efficient workers, as, after the war, they will be called upon to occupy responsible positions owing to changed conditions.

The Old English Fair in aid of the British Red Cross Society appeal realised £2500. The picturesque market-place, which was held in the Town Hall, appealed to the public, and the response was good. An attractive feature was the singing of the students at the Conservatorium of Music.

The educational authorities are to have the co-operation of the Forestry Department in the work of tree-planting by the State school children on Arbor Day. A record number of shrubs and trees—30,000 in all—is available this year for distribution by the Forests Department.

At the last meeting of the Housewives' Association, Miss Annie Evans (Ballarat) spoke on vine and herb culture as suitable industries for woman-workers. There was a good attendance of those interested in these branches of rural industries.

The final performance at Her Majesty's Theatre of "The Three Twins" was the occasion of the farewell appearance in Melbourne of Miss Dorothy Brunton and Miss Connie Ediss. The programme included special numbers, comprising the most popular items sung by the principals in the various musical plays in which the artists have been associated with Miss Brunton and Miss Ediss.

A Russian concert, arranged by Mesdames J. Grebin and O. Ivanhoff, in aid of the funds for the foundation of a Russian library here, was a success. Most of the items were good examples of what Russia has produced in an artistic direction. The most interesting effort of the evening was the Weiniawski Legende for violin, played by M. Max Selinsky, in splendid style. There were folk songs and art songs, and instrumental items; also a recitation (one of Turgenieff's poems), to which Miss Mona M'Burney had put some Australian music. This was given by Madame Grebin. The audience was large and appreciative.

Mrs. Web Gilbert, wife of the Australian sculptor, died recently at her home, "Oyama," Fitzroy, after a long illness. The late Mrs. Gilbert had many friends in the art world, and at one time her home was a favourite meeting place for artists and literary people. With her talented husband she entertained many notable people at "Oyama."

In a short address at the Women's Christian Temperance Union's half-yearly conference, Miss Hurst (Sister Eva) pleaded for the union to take action in matters relating to the censorship of picture films, posters, picture postcards, and certain literature. As a result, a motion was carried protesting against the sale of suggestive postcards, pictures, etc., and calling the attention of the public in general, and mothers in particular, to the danger. Miss Hurst urged that a woman should be one of the members of the board for the censorship of picture films. It was also suggested that some of our women's organisations should urge that pictorial advertisements be made to conform to a certain standard of moral and artistic merit.

At the last meeting of the Melbourne Hospital Committee an application was received from the Royal Victorian Trained Nurses' Association, asking that the term of probation at the Melbourne Hospital be reduced from four years to three, owing to the lack of military nurses. A petition from 71 probationers, employed at the hospital, making a similar request, was also received. The latter stated that they wished to be released for military service. In reporting on the petition, the medical superintendent stated that it was more than ever necessary at the present time to have an efficient nursing staff at the hospital, owing to the scarcity of resident medical officers. Dr. Moore favoured the three-year term. He stated that two years' experience in the Melbourne Hospital was sufficient training for nurses for outside work, and was equal to four year in the country. It was decided to refer the matter to the house committee.

VERONICA.

The committee of the Women's Horticultural Society entertained over a hundred members of the society at the studio of Mrs. Kingsmill-Shaw on Saturday afternoon, June 9. Mrs. Stevens and Miss Bruce spoke on the aims of the society. Afternoon tea was served, and a musical programme was provided by Mrs. Kingsmill-Shaw and friends.

NEW NOTIONS IN TAILORED GOWNS.

WOMEN OF FRANCE.

A PATHETIC APPEAL.

The eloquent and touching address given by Mdlle. Soubeiran on "France" before the members of the Queen Victoria Club and the Women's Reform League possessed much significance. The main object of this timely deliverance was to enlist further interest and sympathy in the effort now being made for France Day. As Mdlle Soubeiran truly remarked "We must all be conscious that we can never do enough for that grand nation and her splendid women and men." After reminding her hearers that the situation had vastly changed since her previous address, she remarked that the women of France, until the Russian affairs so changed the prospect, held out so stoically that it seemed as if they were under a wonderful spell; sacrifices that it seemed humanly impossible to bear were accepted as if they felt no pain. They were buoyed by this spirit, because they felt that all they endured would the quicker help the struggle to end in victory. They thought that their sufferings would secure a peaceful and free future for their children. Ultimate victory was the goal which kept them bravely working and struggling without complaint. But this defection of Russia had crushed to earth the band of brave women who had worked and suffered so wonderfully. "My voice will not allow me to tell you of the sufferings and endurance of the French refugees, and you could not bear to listen to them," continued Mdlle. "Their sufferings are beyond anything the human mind can conceive. Of the least horrifying I will tell you: it is nothing for searchers to find a helpless babe lying in a dead mother's arms by the roadside, where she has fallen, flying in terror from the German soldiers. You have all read recently of the strike of 3000 women in France. May be many of you have been shocked, but it was all due to the defection of Russia. Cannot you realise the despair of these poor women who saw all their hopes thrust away into the dim future, all their sacrifices maybe in vain? A year of war. It means years and years, even centuries counted by sufferings, and these poor women have stood three years of it. A string that has been pulled too tightly must break. The strike was due to the bitterness of despair, and I hope, indeed I am sure, that these poor suffering souls will pull themselves together again. The best way to help them is for those who have not suffered to send them practical sympathy to show that the women of other lands are not insensible of their sufferings.

In helping France's war victims to-day we are helping to win the war, remarked Mdlle. Soubeiran. The most optimistic must admit that the situation is appalling to-day. If we are not prepared to do it out of generosity of heart, we must do it from a selfish standpoint, because by helping to keep up the courage of bleeding France we are helping to win the war.

KINDLY ACTS.

In this sad time of war, how we value little words and acts of kindness. When one is sick and sad, or perhaps has just heard of the death of a loved one at the front, a word from a friend is like cold water to the parched tongue. There are so many little things we can do for people whom we like, but so seldom have a chance of seeing. We can write little cheery letters to them, and help to brighten up their lives in that way. We give to charities regularly, you say, and help our church in its upkeep, and what more can we do? but you forget that you withhold those little cheery words of kindness which are so cherished. I met a girl the other day who lives all alone in a flat in the city. She works in an office to earn her living, and goes home every day to a lonely evening. "I have just heard that my brother has been killed in France," she remarked to me, with tears in her eyes. "I got a cable; it nearly doubled me up, as Jack was the only relative I had left; we were so fond of each other. Oh, it was dreadful to have to bear it all alone. I have had no one to come and say a word of sympathy to me, and what would I have given for a kindly word just then." The old especially appreciate these little words and acts of kindness, and how these dear old souls do love to have little chats and cheerful talk. We all know how in social life we mix with people whom we do not care a straw about, but the ones we really love we see very little of. We are selfish; we shut our hearts too often, and should, in view of the hard times ahead of us and the trouble at the front, be especially kind to one another. How we appreciate on our birthdays or at Christmas-time when some friend rings us up or sends us a little note of kindness and goodwill, and how we value those little gifts, even the humblest, when we know we are thought of.

ZENA.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

The report of the University Extension Board makes interesting reference to the study circles for working-class women. The type of lectures has varied with the needs of the class, but in each circle the outlines of historical development of European countries with reference to the principle of nationality and the status of democracy has been given. The syllabus has been arranged to include studies in such subjects as "Women, Labour, and the War," or "Some Causes of the War," and an attempt has been made to induce the serious study of at least one great problem in relation to terms of peace. Nearly all the students are working-class women, whether of the professional or industrial class, and they are almost without exception employing a part of their spare time in some form of war work.

* * * * *

One of the most interesting features of the work of the University Extension Board is that relating to the class devoted to the study of English literature, which was formed at a city tobacco factory nearly a year ago. The aim of a series of studies is to interest the girls in the work of some of the great English writers, and an outline of the work covered will show the elevating character of the topics selected for study. The literature circle, conducted by Miss Skillen, included the following subjects:—Tennyson, Lady of Shalott (students write an appreciation), Idylls of the King, stories told. Readings from The Coming of Arthur, Lancelot and Elaine, Guinevere, The Passing of Arthur (students select passages for beauty of language and image). Lotos Eaters. Dream of Fair Women. Ode on the Death of the Duke of Wellington. Story of Enoch Arden (students select passages of descriptive value). George Eliot. Stories of her works. Special emphasis on Romola. The Mill on the Floss. Silas Marner. Shakespeare—general review of the "Merchant of Venice."

The Red Cross has received a letter from a prisoner of war at Schneidemuhl, in Germany, expressing heartfelt gratitude for the comforts forwarded from Sydney. The following is an extract:—"Well, mother, I want you all at home to advertise as much as possible the splendid way the Red Cross are looking after and providing for us. I would like you to write to Miss Chomley, of the prisoners of war department, Australian B.R.C.S., and tell her of the way we all appreciate what she and her assistants are doing for us. I pray God that it will not be long before we can show our appreciation in a better way for all that has been done for us."

Mrs. Joseph Cook has developed into a public speaker. Dr. Arthur, president of the Voluntary Workers' Association, stated at Dundas last week that one of the most convincing speeches he ever heard was made by Mrs. Cook at the opening of a home for a wounded soldier. The simple eloquence that came right from Mrs. Cook's heart—for she spoke as a mother with three sons at the front—would, he remarked, long be remembered when the utterances of other speakers had been forgotten.

Mdlle. Soubeiran, of the French-Australian League of Help, is touring the northern districts of the State with the object of furthering the appeal for France's Day. She is at present in Newcastle.

Some of the French soldiers on leave from the front, who recently passed through Sydney, have returned temporarily to their homes in Noumea. While in Sydney they were hospitably entertained by several French citizens. Madame Angele Higinbotham, director of the Cercle de Conversation Francaise, has now received letters from the mothers of some of the men, expressing their gratitude for the kindness and forethought shown towards their soldier sons while in this city.

An ingenious method of helping the funds of the R.S.A. has been suggested by Mrs. Arthur Hutton, of Kirribilli Point. The idea is to collect all disused tubes which have held lanoline, tooth paste, or shaving soap, for the sake of the metal, which will be sold, and the money forwarded to the committee of the R.S.A., who have authorised Mrs. Hutton to collect them. Those who approve of Mrs. Hutton's laudable efforts may leave empty tubes at the depot, 16 Carrington-street, Wynyard-square.

Miss Crosthwait, who is interesting herself in the work of the Missionary Settlement for University Women of India, left Sydney last week to continue her work in Melbourne, Adelaide, and Perth. While in Sydney she gave an interesting account of the society's hostel in Bombay, where the missionary settlement workers strive to foster a mutual understanding of East and West. In our own University centre, at Manning House, Miss Crosthwait has come to know many of its students intimately. Her talks have brought India close to us, and she has given us a vision of its needs and our possibilities.

Some interesting mementoes of the earlier battles in the war have been received by Madame Angele Higinbotham, of Turner-chambers, Hunter-street. They represent photographs of German flags taken by the French in a battle with the 37th Pomeranian Regiment in December, 1914, and the 72nd Infantry, 2nd Battalion, of Landwehr, in the Battle of the Aisne. The ferocity with which the Germans attacked the French may be gauged by the tattered condition of one of the colours, which is seen to be riddled with shot and shell. The flags are now hanging in the Invalides, in Paris.

A woman sculptor and a woman architect recently gave a tea party in Melbourne, and a number of women journalists were invited to view the decorative motifs of the ornamental pillars in the central lounge. The hostesses, Miss Margaret Baskerville and Mrs. W. B. Griffin, had a hand in the craftsmanship. Mrs. Griffin suggested the decorative theme, and Miss Baskerville was responsible for the modelling. Each pillar is mounted on one side with a graceful figure—a pleasing arrangement of foliage and cereals veiling the nudity. Persephone, the embodiment of spring, had cherry-blossoms and rye for her setting; Daphne—Autumn, was among orange trees and sheaves of barley; while Echo, of Greek fable fame, stood among almond blossoms and barley.

This week will see the launching of two patriotic campaigns in Melbourne. Lady Helen Munro Ferguson will open a fete at the Hawthorn Town Hall, where the public will be asked to spend money for the benefit of the British Red Cross Society. The Thrift Campaign opens at the same time, and speakers will advocate economy. Though conflicting forces appear to exist in the two campaigns, in reality both embrace patriotic principles. To save that one may be able to spend for national purposes appears to be, at present, the object aimed at.

OUR INDEBTEDNESS TO WOMEN.

Some of the English papers, Archdeacon Gunther observes, give very valuable reports of work carried on by women successfully in the fields and in various departments of industry. Over half a million are said to be at work in munition centres. Though the work must be drudgery in some cases, it is gladly and judiciously undertaken, and women show, to quote the Italian proverb, "What she wills she can." The girls in the factories have left their homes to engage in this dangerous and difficult work to save the lives of our fighting men. The Archbishop of Canterbury may well appeal, as he is doing, not only for directly spiritual ministrations, but for women to assist in making arrangements for discipline, hygiene, and commissariat. But this is only one of the many departments of work in which girls are engaged. Miss Tex Blake, principal of Girton College, tells of the wonderful activity of some of the girls in work for their country in the dreadful crisis it is going through. Some of them are felling trees and helping on the land during the vacation—others have done canteen work, and are every day postwomen. Ex-students are surgeons, radiographers, and motor drivers, and managing laundries. One is preparing a student for a Balliol scholarship and holding classes. Many of us know, and are proud of, our Australian women—strong in faith, courage, and labours of love—but do we think of our indebtedness to them and their national service? How are we going to show our gratitude to them in the future?

THE LIFT ATTENDANT.

There is a figure, now familiar, but in days before the war, unknown; the figure of the neatly dressed girl, unobtrusive, attentive to her work, who operates the lift in many business places, shops, tea rooms, etc. The number of these is steadily increasing. During the past few months, quite as many women as men have received certificates as lift attendants. The fact has caused considerable dissatisfaction among male lift attendants.

Under the Factories and Shops Act a woman has been barred from the control, custody, or management of any elevator or lift, but by gazette notice, issued in March of this year, the Governor has exempted from the prohibitory sections of this Act, "any factory or shop, in respect of which the Minister for Labour and Industry may have authorised any female of or over the age of 18 years, to work any electrically-controlled or automatic passenger or service lift."

It is not very difficult for the average girl to learn to drive a lift, that is to turn the handle, and to stop it. The girl who can ride a bicycle or motor cycle, or drive a car, will find it easy. While watching the driver of a tram, you will notice that the tram motorman never puts the electric power on quickly, he does it in series, but when he stops, it is switched off at once.

Before applying for a certificate, the prospective life attendant must make herself familiar with fuses and other electrical equipment, not in a highly technical degree, but so that she may, in case of any difficulty, know what has happened, and be able to send for the right person. If you look at a lift, you will see that the various wire ropes which pull it up are caught to hooks at the side, and spring catches at the bottom of the lift. Should the suspension cables break, these are automatically released, and jammed into the runners or guides for safety. You will notice, too, that as the door shuts, the lift door is locked by the electric connecting device in the lock. The lift girl should be familiar with all locks and electrical contacts, and all the working parts of her special province.

Having mastered all this, and it may be done fairly quickly, the prospective lift attendant must drive a lift for a week in any authorised place. In many places she may obtain this privilege, under the guidance of the present lift attendant. Then she must submit herself for examination to the Department of Labour and Industry. Should she receive her certificate and a position as lift attendant, she receives the same wage as a man, under 19 years, £1 15s per week, under 20 years £1 17s 6d, under 21 years £2 5s, and over 21 years £2 12s 6d. Her week's work consists of not more that 50 hours, worked between 8 a.m. and 6.15 p.m., on five days of the week, and 8 a.m. and 1.15 p.m. on Saturdays. Work in excess or outside of these hours, must be paid for as time and a half. Meal times must be not less than three-quarters of an hour. If a uniform be worn, attendants may dress and change in employers' time, and no lift attendant may be required to do cleaning other than cleaning his or her lift and its accessories.

F.J.A.

INCORRECT FRENCH.

When the boys come back from Somewhere in France among the many things they are going to bring us are new French words and phrases. Meanwhile let us get to work on the few French words we do use, and use them correctly. Bouquet, for instance, is not "bow-kay," like "bow" of ribbon with the latter "k" tacked on; yet 99 out of every 100 girls pronounce it so. As nearly as one can give the English equivalent it is "book," and then the letter "A." The stress must be laid on the first syllable, and not on the "A." As in the much-condemned baby language, the little one calls its book a bookie; call your bunch of flowers a bookay, and you will pass muster.

Another mistake which appears in some newspapers, mostly in the births' columns, is the misuse of the word nee. Nee means born, and nobody yet was born with a Christian name. Mrs. Smith was not nee Mary Jones. She was nee Jones, if you will use the French word. If you wish to make sure your friends will recognise which one of the Misses Jones you were, leave out the nee, and write (Mary Jones) with a bracket.

PATRIOTIC WORK.

The monthly meeting of the 30th Battalion Committee was held at the new depot last week, Mrs. Clark, president, being in the chair. The hon. secretary reported having received a case of comforts from Tilba Tilba valued at £12; also a parcel of shirts from the Red Cross Committee of Picton. A gold wristlet watch was given in by Miss Grant to be disposed of on behalf of the funds. A letter was received from Colonel Clark, thanking the ladies for goods received. Arrangements were made for a performance of "Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace" by the Vagabond Club in St. James's Hall on July 5. The balance-sheet for the refreshment tent at Royal Agricultural Show was read, the share of the committee being £361 1s 3d. The ladies in charge of the refreshment tent for the month are Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. Davis, and Mrs. Austin Chapman.

The Newcastle and Hunter River District War Chest Fund (N.S.W. Field Force Fund) has met with a splendid response to the appeal to the district for its share towards the 100,000 pairs of socks for the fighting men. Altogether almost 6000 pairs have been received up to date, including many donations from the various schools and committees. The new War Chest branches at Scone and Muswellbrook forwarded collections to the Newcastle headquarters, Muswellbrook sending 677 pairs and Scone 501. These branches, though only formed a short time ago, have achieved good results, spinning being one of the industries that has been enthusiastically taken up. The Scone committee has shown great enterprise in selling hot coffee and refreshments at the picture shows, while a tea-room at the Muswellbrook depot each Friday has proved a very successful venture. The Public schools of the Hunter River district have sent in splendid collections also, the children denying themselves sweets and picture shows in order to purchase wool. The largest numbers were sent by Cook's Hill (450 pairs) and Plattsburg (256 pairs). These schools received £1 1s and 10s 6d respectively, prizes given by Mr. C. Greaves and Mrs. S. Croudace. The 30th Battalion won Mrs. S. Croudace's prize of £1 1s with 350 pairs of socks, while Mrs. R. Davidson's prize of £1 1s and Mrs. George Ireland's prize of 10s 6d were won by Mrs. Croudace (60 pairs) and Miss Brewin (56).

The appeal made for socks for France's Day by Madame Angele Higinbotham, director of the Cercle de Conversation Francaise, is meeting with a ready response. The members of the circle are busily engaged in knitting on three days in each week, and a cordial invitation is extended to friends and former members of the club to help in this praiseworthy work at Turner-chambers, Hunter-street, on Mondays, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. The socks will be presented to the French-Australian League.

As a result of Miss Hooke's appeal for socks for the Citizens' War Chest at the Woodstock Old Girls' reunion, the committee were able to hand in 46 pairs.

The appeal for sewing machines on behalf of the Darling Point branch of the A.M.C. Comforts' Fund is being responded to, three machines having already been sent to the depot at Darling Point. The stall at Waters' corner on Red Triangle Day realised £80.

The "Old Girls' Union," in connection with the Girls' High School, Castlereagh-street, will lend their aid on France's Day. The principal of the school, Mrs. Garvin has called a meeting of ex-pupils, which is to be held this evening at 7.30 in the school hall, to make arrangements for a stall.

The Engineers' and Signallers' Comforts Committee have decided to pool all woollens with the War Chest, and have sent in 126 flannel shirts, 56 pairs shorts, and a further batch of sock-making, a total of 372 pairs of socks. A sock competition has been arranged, to close on July 21.

At the monthly meeting of the 1st and 53rd Comforts Fund, held at the depot on Monday, it was announced that Mr. D. R. Hall, Attorney-General, had consented to become patron. It was reported that 560 flannel shirts and 617 pairs of socks had been forwarded to the War Chest since the beginning of May. Owing to the members working so hard for the War Chest 100,000, the sock competition has been extended until July 1. It was decided to hold a cafe chantant in aid of the fund.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Vera Keely.—According to Webster's International Dictionary, "Omar Khayyam" is pronounced Omar Ki-yam, "Rubaiyat" as Roo-bi-at, and "Chaucer" as Choser. The lastnamed pronunciation, however, seems somewhat pedantic, as the name of Geoffrey Chaucer, the author of "Canterbury Tales," is usually pronounced as spelt. It is difficult to print the exact pronounciation of French, inasmuch as it is purely a matter of the cultivation of the ear. Cafe Chantant is pronounced "Kafay Shon-tahn," but if you call at the Cercle de Conversation Francaise, at Turner-chambers, Hunter-street, Madame Higinbotham would gladly put you in the right way of pronouncing the words in the accepted Parisian style.

"Louise."—You will obtain all information as to the procedure in joining a branch of the V.A.D. by writing to the Red Cross Depot, 4 Bridge-street.

For the future monthly meetings of the Citizens' Association of New South Wales will be held in the assembly room, new Education Building, Bridge and Loftus streets, at 2.30 p.m., on every second Thursday in each month from March to November. Mr Nangle, of the Technical College, will deliver a lecture on Thursday, August 9, at 2.30 p.m., the subject being the Housing Problem and Clause C of the book of rules and aims of the association.

Eldwood whistled, and jumped up and made a mock obeisance. "Sir James! The well-known financier! This is indeed an honour!"

"You can cut out all that tomfoolery, Eldwood, and get down to business. What is it you want? Put it plainly, and clear out."

"What a man you are for business!" exclaimed Eldwood. "So clear-headed, so straight to the point, such a grip of essentials! Of course, you mean you wish to come to an arrangement, so I'll——"

"Not so fast," cut in Carton quickly. "This thing has nothing to do with me. Don't make any mistake about that."

"Then you yourself don't want to arrange the matter? I ask because our old relations would have made me willing to settle the thing amicably."

"You mean you thought you could get something out of me. Well, you can't."

"No deceiving you, is there?" mocked Eldwood winking. "Then there's nothing for it but to send for the police."

Sir James shuddered with a half-suppressed groan at the word, but Carton knew the man better. He rose and rang the bell.

"What's that for?" cried Eldwood, startled.

"Calling your bluff," said Carton quietly. Eldwood swore under his breath. "Mr. Eldwood here wants you to fetch a policeman," he said to the man who answered the bell.

"No I don't," growled Eldwood.

"I misunderstood you. It's a mistake," added Carton to the man, who went away again. "Now, perhaps, we can get on then."

"You're a cool hand, Carton."

"Not a bit of it. I wish to know my position. If you want to earn that police reward you can earn it and welcome for all I care, but as I know you'd think of the dollars first, last, and all the time, and as not one of 'em will come out of my pocket, you'd better say what your price is, then Sir James can tell you whether he'll pay it."

"You seem to know all about everything."

"I do. You told me your side and he's told me his; and just before you came in I'd advised him to clear out of the country, and, as he has no money, I'd offered to pay his steerage fare to Australia and help him till he found some work to do out there."

"Well, you'll be saved that trouble and expense, at any rate," said Eldwood angrily. "But you won't put me off like that."

"I can understand your disappointment," and Carton laughed and shrugged his shoulders.

Sir James, who had listened in a sweat of fear, spoke then for the first time. "What do you want?" he asked Eldwood.

"I want the money you and your wife stole from me. In round figures, some hundred thousand dollars; £20,000 in your money."

Carton laughed and picked up a newspaper, as if he had finished with the affair altogether. Sir James only groaned.

"It's no good groaning," said Eldwood brutally, irritated at this apparent confirmation of Carton's statement that Sir James had no money. "If you can't pay it all at once you can have time, and if you haven't got the money yourself I'll show you how to raise it. Is that good enough for you?"

"I'll do it if—if I can," murmured Sir James, ready to grasp at any straw.

"I've got the papers with me. I brought 'em to show Carton, for I've a heap more influence with him than you'd think by his talk," said Eldwood, taking the papers from his pocket and opening them out on the table. "A squint or two at these will show you they're good for all the money I want and a little pile for you as well. All that's wanted is a name or two."

Sir James looked through them and appeared very much relieved. "Are these statements true?" he asked, looking up at length.

"True?" cried Eldwood laughing. "Of course they are. Ask Carton there whether I should be likely to father anything rotten?"

Carton lowered his paper. "You know your man and can judge for yourself," he said with a dry laugh.

As Carton put up his newspaper again, and the other two bent over the documents on the table, the door of the adjoining room opened and Frank entered, looking haggard and worn and ill. He paused on the threshold in blank astonishment at seeing such a scoundrel as Eldwood closeted with his father and Sir James, and seemingly on intimate terms with both.

"Father," he exclaimed, as he stepped to the table at which Carton had written the letter to Muriel, and his hand chanced to fall on the blotting paper which lay over it.

All three started at his voice, Carton springing to his feet and Eldwood turning with a sneer. "Hullo, here's the young cockerel."

"Do you know who that man really is?" cried Frank, pointing at Eldwood, his finger shaking with rage. "He scraped acquaintance with you on the steamer, I know, but he's Eldwood the crook, forger, thief, and ex-convict."

Sir James collapsed at this, and crouched back in his chair. Eldwood replied to it with a nonchalant laugh and a shrug of the shoulders, but Carton's consternation was intense. He had but one thought—to get Frank away at once. "You don't understand, Frank. Leave us a while. I'll explain presently," he said unsteadily.

Frank, overcome by surprise, started violently, and the hand on the blotting paper slipped, uncovering the writing. Glancing down to replace it, he read the first few words involuntarily.

"You hear what I say, Frank," said Carton, mistaking the reason for the pause and consequent agitation.

"You wish me to leave you—with him?" pointing at Eldwood again.

"Yes," nodded Carton decisively.

"I'll go, then. I've learnt what I came to know," cried Frank, as he flourished the letter, let it fall on the table, and went out, slamming the door behind him.

Perplexed by this, for he had forgotten about his letter to Muriel, Carton crossed the room quickly, glanced at it, caught his breath, crammed the letter into his pocket, and hurried to the door.

"Fank! Frank!" he called.

But there was no reply, and, finding the room beyond empty, he rushed out into the corridor, and then down to the hall as fast as he could leap the stairs, only to learn from the porter that Frank had just left the hotel.

CHAPTER XXIV.

NEWS AT LAST.

To a man of Carton's disposition nothing was more irritating than the consciousness that an affair which he had intended to control was slipping out of his grip; and he had the feeling strongly as he went back upstairs after hearing that Frank had left the hotel.

The whole incident worried him. It was the worst of luck that Frank should have arrived just when he did; have seen the letter to Muriel, and have rushed away without giving time for a word of explanation. He resented the haste as a quasi-condemnation of his conduct, although, at the same time, he was quite ready to condemn himself.

He was thus in a very bad temper when he rejoined the others, who had found time in the interval to come to some sort of agreement.

"I don't want to hear another syllable about it," he said, when Sir James was beginning an explanation. "It's your matter; do what you like, but leave me out of it."

Eldwood whistled and laughed. "I'm glad to see that young cockerel of yours can rouse your dander. He did mine yesterday. He wants his comb cut, Carton. That's about the size of it."

"If you two have settled things you can go," replied Carton angrily.

"My friend and colleague, Sir James Ledfield, is going," mocked Eldwood. He's tickled to death by these concessions of mine you wouldn't look at, and——"

"That'll do," broke in Carton sharply.

"Thinks there's a pile of dollars in them; and that this is just the moment of moments to——"

"I tell you I don't want to hear about it."

"Float them on a rising market," continued Eldwood, finishing the sentence without paying the slightest heed to Carton's protests.

Sir James was by no means so indifferent to his brother's anger, and was glad to get out of the room without loss of time.

"Shrewd fellow, that brother of yours," said Eldwood meaningly, when he and Carton were alone.

"Get a move on, Eldwood. Say what you want to say and clear."

"He thinks that, considering the relationship between you—between us all three, in fact—you ought not to be left out of such a good thing as this."

"Drive on."

"Of course, I think so, too."

"I don't care a red cent what either of you think," snapped Carton. "You won't jump me."

"Say, don't be so peppery, Carton. Let's talk it over quietly. Because that boy has got your rag out, you needn't vent it on me."

"You'd better keep off the subject of my son."

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

The case of Carson v the Commonwealth arising out of a disputed claim for balance of account in regard to the supply of firewood for military camps, is still part heard, before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

CLAIM BY VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS.

Groves and another v Rickards Tivoli Theatres, Ltd.

Mr. Curtis and Mr. Fuller, instructed by Mr. Neville W. Montague, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. Ernest R. Cohen and Linton, for the defendants. This was an action brought by James Henry Groves and Emma Groves (his wife), vaudeville artists, known professionally as "Niagara and Falls," against the Harry Rickards Tivoli Theatres, Ltd., to recover compensation for alleged breach of contract. Mr. Curtis, in explaining the case to the jury, said that immediately prior to plaintiffs' visit to Australia they were appearing in South Africa, and were there engaged by the defendants' agents under a contract, which provided that they should enter into the service of defendants, and perform for them for a period of eight weeks, at a weekly salary of £30 per week, less 10 per cent. Plaintiffs having arrived in Australia, in pursuance of the contract, were sent on to Brisbane to open there, which they did on the 23rd December, 1916. They appeared for a week or 10 days, and the male plaintiff then asked defendant's manager at Brisbane where they were going next. They were informed that they would ascertain in Sydney where they would next open. Upon reaching Sydney they saw Mr. Holt, the defendant's business manager, and after several interviews, Groves pointed out that they could not be kept idle for ever. To this, according to plaintiffs' case, Holt replied that under the contract the defendants could keep them idle for any time they liked, even for six months, allowing them to show for a few days during that period. Some time subsequently plaintiffs went to the Melbourne Rickards' circuit, leaving a refreshment room, which they had been running here, to the care of a friend. They played there professionally, and were then informed by defendants authorised representative that the contract would be finished on the following Friday. This, plaintiff contended, was a breach of the contract, which was to begin on December 23, 1916, and terminate on February 16, 1917. This left one week and one day of the contract unfulfilled. Upon this fact being pointed out to the defendants' agent, he said, "I have nothing to do with that; all I know is that you have to go." Plaintiffs then asked that their return fare to Sydney should be paid, but this application was refused. Damages were laid at £200.

Defendants denied the breaches of contract alleged, and also pleaded that plaintiffs were not always ready and willing to continue in their service in the capacity or on the terms set out in the contract.

His Honor, before evidence was called, asked if the dispute could not be settled. If the parties could come to some agreement it would be better than relying, possibly, on some question of law.

After a brief consultation between the parties a verdict, by consent, was given for plaintiffs, with damages £100 1s.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

The case of York Buildings, Ltd., v Deputy Commissioner of Land Tax, is still part heard before Mr. Justice Ferguson.

IN EQUITY.

Deeks is to be continued in the employ as Mrs. Chisholm's representative. Nothing outside the ordinary running expenses are to be incurred without the consent of Jolley and Deeks.

Mr. C. Davidson, instructed by Mr. W. C. Clegg, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. Thomas Rose and Dawes, for the defendant.

A brother of the accused, Harry Eyles, gave evidence that deceased was suffering intensely from despondency and neuralgia. HOW TO CONSTRUCT CONCRETE BRIDGES.

No. II.

In order to illustrate the great strength derived from the monolithic nature of reinforced concrete construction, Mr. Hart called attention by means of a photo. of a three-span bridge built near Maclean. This bridge consists of a centre span of 60 feet, with end spans of 50 feet each. The shore spans were both concreted about a fortnight before the centre span, which had been concreted for 16 days only, when a sugar cane punt in tow of a motor boat swung outside the fairway, left open for the maintenance of the water traffic, and swept away the whole of the struts and other false work from beneath the bridge. This left the green concrete of the 60ft centre span quite unsupported. But a close scrutiny of the bridge after the accident proved that the structure had suffered no harm, and had satisfactorily withstood all the tests that were subsequently imposed upon it. This case, Mr. Hart said, constituted the record for quick striking of timber, but he thought a similar record could be put up at any time. The resistance of monolithic bridges of this form to damage from any cause whatever was considered nothing short of wonderful, and has, said Mr. Hart, illustrated in the following case, which was of recent occurrence in New Zealand:—"A reinforced concrete bridge of two spans of 60 feet was built across a creek which, in summer, was practically dry. The two spans were continuous from end to end, and were supported on a mass concrete pier about 20 feet high, built in the centre of the creek. The parapet walls of the bridge were designed to act as girders of 60 feet span, the deck of the bridge being designed as a flat slab, supported by the parapet side walls. During a very severe flood, in which enormous quantities of large timber came down the river (the water being about 12 inches from the underside of the beams), the central pier was broken right off and disappeared down stream, leaving the bridge hanging right across in one span of 120 feet; the deflection being 4½ inches. The usual traffic was stopped when this deflection was noticed, but it was not until after the flood had gone down that it was discovered that the central pier had been scoured out and broken off. Very few cracks appeared in the girders, and they were jacked up and a new pier was built, and the bridge was in use to-day, apparently none the worse for the mishap. Mr. Hart said, without fear of contradiction, that no other form of construction could possibly have withstood this treatment, and he left it to his audience, the engineers, to estimate how much of a saving was effected by the Local Government authority, who adopted a reinforced bridge in this instance, and how great was the increase of strength in monolithic structures over those built up of separate pieces.

In respect of the materials used in concrete building, those invariably specified, consisted of four parts crushed stone of from ⅜in to 1in gauge, two parts clear sand, and one part Portland cement, complying with the Government test. In cases, however, where suitable gravel was plentiful, it was frequently substituted for the mixture of broken stone and sand. Clean water should always be used in mixing, and should, for preference, be fresh, although good concrete could be made with salt water. Machine mixing was to be preferred to hand mixing.

N.S.W. BANK IMPROVEMENTS.

New branch premises have recently been completed at Cobargo for the Bank of New South Wales. This building is designed in the Georgian style, carried out in brick, with cement dressings, and roofed with tiles. Ample accommodation has been provided for the business of a country bank, together with commodious residential quarters for the manager. A gas plant has been installed for lighting the entire premises; the ceilings throughout are of fibrous plaster. This building, as completed, is considered the most up-to-date of its kind in the southern district. The work was carried out by Messrs. Kell and Rigby, builders, of Burwood, to designs and under the supervision of Messrs. Spain, Cosh, and Dods, architects, Sydney.

The old New South Wales Bank premises at Macquarie-place, city, have just been remodelled, altered, and renovated throughout. New fittings, lavatory accommodation, and all other necessary offices have been arranged to suit the extensive business carried on by this branch of the bank. The work was successfully carried out by Mr. W. Mounsey, builder, of Redfern, to plans and details and under the supervision of Messrs. Spain, Cosh, and Dods, architects.

The Manly branch of the New South Wales Bank has also been thoroughly altered and renovated and fitted up with entirely new fittings. The residential quarters were altered, renovated, and made up-to-date throughout.

EXCEPTION:—

The districts of Roseville, Lindfield, Killara, and Gordon having been provided with distributing mains during the last few weeks only, the restriction No. 2 does not apply in those districts, and further, after the 30th September, 1917, until further notice, the City Council will not connect any additional installation of any kind. This applies to all areas and districts without exception.

It is to be particularly noted that the mere application for a supply by the 30th September next will not insure an installation being connected. No connection of additional installations will be carried out after the 30th September.

N.B.—The above restrictions do not apply in cases in which installations have been connected by the Council and for some reason disconnected.

Dated this sixth day of June, 1917.

APPEAL TO FARMERS.

An important matter was considered yesterday by the Wheat Board. Owing to the shortage of labour offering in the country for the work of reconditioning the wheat stacks, and the extremely serious situation that prevails, it has been decided that something must be done to obtain additional labour. The board, therefore, meditates making an appeal to the farmers to come forward and save their own wheat by helping in the work of reconditioning. Farmers prepared to do this would be paid the award rates as recently set out by Mr. Justice Heydon.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. W. G. Grahame, stated yesterday that the Wheat Board has made every effort to obtain labour, and the result has not been at all satisfactory. It was imperative that the wheat must be reconditioned as speedily as possible, more particularly as the weather has broken in many of the wheat districts.

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

The Chief Commissioner for Railways, Mr. James Fraser, Mr. E. Milne (Deputy Chief Commissioner), and Mr. J. H. Cann (Assistant Commissioner) last week carried out the annual inspection of portion of the Southern line and branches, including the sections from Humula to Wagga Wagga, Wagga Wagga to Albury, the branches Culcairn to Holbrook and Corowa, branch line to Oaklands, the South-western line to Hay, and the branch Narrandera to Tocumwal, the main line Junee to Cootamundra, and the branch line to Tumut.

In the course of their report the Commissioners state that the area covered included much of the great wheat-producing portion of the State, and the quantity on hand at many of the stations visited was very large. Lockhart station, on the Oaklands branch, showed the highest total, 390,100 bags having been stacked on the railway premises, of which 180,500 bags represent old wheat of 1915-16 crop, and 209,600 bags new season 1916-17. The condition of a large quantity of this wheat was deplorable, the smell from decaying bags in places being almost overpowering on inspection.

Taking the whole of the Southern line and branches south of Harden, including the Temora to Wyalong and Griffith branches (not covered by this inspection), there were on hand on the 2nd instant no less than 1,000,000 bags of old wheat and 6,000,000 bags of new, a total of 7,000,000 bags at all stations, equal to 21,000,000 bushels. Nearly twelve months would be occupied in moving the seven million bags still on hand.

Unfortunately, however, it was found that these totals were rapidly diminishing as the result chiefly of the mice plague, together with careless stacking in the first instance, and insufficient covering or protection. Huge stacks had degenerated into shapeless heaps. In the event of a seasonable rainfall, the losses would amount to a calamity, and the present appearances warrant the anticipation of a loss of something like 10 per cent. which would never see the seaboard as world food.

"Only those who have actually seen the havoc that is being caused," the report continues, "can form any real conception of how desperate the position really is, and the sight of such waste is indeed depressing. If there be still in the State any opponents of bulk handling of grain, a system under which the wheat would be protected in vermin-proof silos, it is certain that a tour round the southern wheat area at the present time would lend to a quick conversion. It will naturally be asked, 'What is being done to prevent this woeful waste and to grapple with the situation?' It must be confessed that so far as appearances go, the efforts to the present have been totally inadequate to meet the extremely urgent necessities of the case. Under instructions from the Wheat Board, the agents are endeavouring to protect the wheat by what are supposed to be mouse-proof fences. The procedure is to first build a ring fence round a stacking site, composed of sheets of galvanised iron sunk about six inches of their length into the ground and projecting some eighteen inches or more above it, the ends overlapping and nailed to wooden stakes driven into the ground. These uprights are fixed on the inner side of the fence, and capped with a flat piece of tin or galvanised iron, projecting outwards to prevent any mice that might possibly climb the iron at the joints from getting into the enclosure. It was observed in a few cases, however, that there was a lack of uniformity, the wooden stakes being fixed on the outside of the fence, and in others that the capping was missing. The ring fence having been erected, the wheat from the old and fallen stacks is rebagged and stacked within the enclosure, where it is supposed to be safe from further depredation. Considerable doubt, however, was expressed at many places as to the efficacy of the arrangement; indeed, at one station the mice were said to be as thick inside the new stacks as outside.

"The opinion was expressed at one station that if the fences were carefully gone round each morning and any burrows that the mice had started during the night well tamped in, the mice could be prevented from gaining an access by the subterranean route. The rate at which the work is being carried out is painfully slow.

"The few men employed scratch along in a most leisurely and desultory manner, with shovels and kerosene tins, scooping up the grain and filling it into fresh bags to be subsequently restacked. Meanwhile vast quantities of wheat are exposed to the risk of destruction in the event of heavy rain. The position is alarming, and should be combated at once in an energetic and comprehensive way, with constant and vigorous inspection; and the only thorough and effective means of conserving the wealth that has been created, and is now being gradually lost, appears to be to remove the wheat from the infested areas altogether, as quickly as possible. Almost without exception the country wheat agents are of opinion that it would be an advisable course to take the wheat away from the country.

"Two suggestions worthy of consideration were made to the Commissioners. One was that the wheat should be shifted to Goulburn, where there is a cold climate, and no mice, and stacked there until required for shipment. The Chief Commissioner expressed the readiness of the Commissioners to do all they could to assist by providing necessary stacking sites, and officers are now arranging details of sidings, dunnage, etc. Plenty of rolling stock is available, and the wheat would be shifted as quickly as possible. The other suggestion was that the departmental grain shed at Brocklesby, which has a good cement floor, be made available and suitable for bulk storage by the provision of mouse-proof walls. The Chief Commissioner intimated that the proposal would have prompt consideration, and if demonstrated to be effective, all grain sheds in the State, having a total storage capacity of approximately 7,000,000 bushels, could be similarly utilised, and so help to conserve the national wealth.

"Another phase of this matter, and an important one, is that unless the wheat now stacked at many of the stations is got away within the next few months, there will not be sufficient room to admit of more than a small portion of next season's crop being stacked in the yards. Something, therefore, should be done at once to relieve the situation in this respect."

BLIGHT-RESISTANT POTATOES.

At the last meeting of the Agricultural Section of the Royal Society, Mr. E. Cheel, Botanic Gardens, exhibited tubers of solanum commersoni and S. maglia, which are closely related to the ordinary potato, S. tuberosum. The original tubers were obtained from Messrs. Sutton and Sons, of Reading, England, and the exhibited tubers were raised from these in Mr. Cheel's private garden. In discussing these tubers, the product of the second season's planting from the original, Mr. Cheel remarked that in the first season tubers only as big as walnuts were produced, but a considerable increase, both in size and number, resulted from the second season's planting. Solanum commersoni has a tendency to produce a large number of underground training shoots, probably an advantage. Mr. Cheel was also successful in cross-pollinating two species, and producing two seed berries. The interesting point about these two species is that they have been reported to be entirely resistent to Irish blight. It is also reported that there is a violet variety of S. commersoni, producing yields up to 6½ tons per acre, and that without manure of any kind.

SEED WHEAT.

Mr. S. C. Browning writes:—I notice the Wheat Pool will allow farmers who require seed wheat to get it out of the pool under certain conditions. The farmer must have deposited enough wheat with the pool that there will be sufficient left after he has got the seed he requires as security for the same. He has got to hand over his wheat certificates. He has to agree to pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent., and his crop must be free from encumbrance; or he can purchase right out for cash at 4s 3d per bushel. It is a most generous offer, and one that should appeal to the farmers. First, the farmer is compelled to hand over his wheat to the pool. The banks then advance him a loan on his own wheat of 2s 6d per bushel, for which he has to pay 5 per cent. interest. Then, if from some cause or other he finds he is short of seed wheat, and also short of cash to buy it, what is he to do? He is offered his own wheat back again upon the above conditions—wheat that was seized from him by force without any conditions whatever. The offer is a downright insult to the farmer. Heaven help the farmer who has to depend upon the Government for his seed wheat. It is just another instance of how the farmer has been insulted and exploited since the wheat pool was introduced. And then politicians have the assurance to tell the farmer he is not patriotic unless he grows more wheat for them to seize and do as they like with. That is the way to encourage the farmer to grow wheat—charge him 5 per cent. for his own money, and then charge him 5 per cent. on his own wheat; or, if he is in a position to pay cash, sell him his own wheat, for which he is paying 5 per cent. interest, at 9d per bushel more than he will receive for it when he is paid in full.

POULTRY CONFERENCE.

Poultry farmers who have received invitations to attend the ninth annual poultry conference, which is to take place at Hawkesbury Agricultural College, Richmond, on Saturday next, 16th instant, are reminded that the special train arranged for will leave Sydney at 8.50 a.m. This train will stop at Strathfield, Granville, Parramatta, Wentworthville, Toongabbie, Seven Hills, Blacktown, Quaker's Hill, Riverstone, Windsor, and Richmond. On the return journey the train will leave Richmond at 4.50 p.m., arriving in Sydney at 6.30 p.m.

HORSE BREEDING.

At the annual meeting of the Dapto A. and H. Society an animated discussion took place in regard to a proposal from the Royal Society that the Government be asked to set apart a portion of the revenue derived from the totalisator for the purpose of subsidising horse-breeding through the various agricultural societies. Several members objected to the onus of selecting the mares being thrown on the societies, while other speakers contended farmers were more capable of selecting mares than the Government experts. It was also contended that the cattle subsidised by the Government had been a failure, and that in horse-breeding private enterprise was preferable to Government interference. One speaker argued that at a time like this the totalisator money was more needed by the Government than by the horse-breeders.

The committee, by a large majority, declined to endorse the proposal of the Royal Society.

APPLE TRADE.

"Javey," Fernmount, writes:—Now that the export of apples from Australia to Great Britain is prohibited, it is only reasonable to expect that this fruit should be obtainable locally at fairly moderate prices. Your commercial columns show that the choicest varieties of apples are being sold in Sydney markets at from five to nine shillings per bushel case. But here, on the North Coast, the usual retail price for apples not much larger than billiard balls is from eighteenpence to two shillings per dozen, and naturally this prevents most people from indulging in what under other circumstances should be a regular adjunct to the dinner table. Is there no feasible way of bringing producer and consumer closer in touch with each other on this important matter? Thus, suppose half a dozen neighbours clubbed together and sent an order, accompanied by the amount required for cost of fruit and shipping charges to Sydney for, say, six or more cases of apples, to whom should such an order be sent? And is there any hope that it would be promptly and faithfully attended to? I feel certain that with proper encouragement a very extensive development of trade would take place in the direction indicated, and it is to the highest interests of Australian fruitgrowers to foster and maintain a strong local demand for such a necessary and health-preserving addition to our usual diet.

RABBITS AND NOXIOUS WEEDS.

ALBURY.—Arising out of a report by the rabbit inspector, the Albury Pastures Protection Board has empowered the inspector to take immediate action where necessary in regard to the destroyal of rabbits. The vexed question of the destruction of noxious weeds on roads and reserves was again discussed at a meeting of the board. Doubt exists as to the precise work that should be done by the shire council, the P. P. boards, and the Government. On all sides, complaint is made that the Government fails to give the reserves any attention in regard to rabbits or noxious weeds, the result being that these reserves are a perpetual menace to the owners of land adjoining them. Hume Shire Council wrote that the position in regard to the reserves was absolutely disastrous to the local governing bodies' efforts to eradicate noxious weeds. It was decided to comply with a request that the Minister should bring the matter of stock reserves before the Government, with a view to the entire control and management of them being vested in some responsible body, but the board left it an open matter with the Minister as to whether the control should be exercised by the shire councils or the P. P. boards.

SOUTH COAST SHOWS.

DAPTO.—At the annual meeting of the Dapto A. and H. Society Mr. J. G. Fairley was re-elected president, Mr. J. J. Cook secretary, and Mr. J. H. Lindsay treasurer. The balance-sheet disclosed a profit on the year's operations of £105/8/8, which it was decided to divide equally between the Red Cross and War Chest funds. The president remarked that such a substantial sum for patriotic purposes was a sufficient answer to those who held that shows should not be held during war-time.

Mr. A. C. Brown, in discussing the annual report, said it was an unfortunate thing that so many shows were held on the South Coast. He contended that there should be one big show only, held in a central position, and prizes offered sufficiently tempting to attract exhibits from all parts of the State. Such a show, he said, would be second only to the Royal Exhibition. Although there were difficulties in the way of carrying out the scheme, he hoped that the different societies would amalgamate on the lines he suggested.

Mr. J. Stevenson considered that the smaller shows at the different centres were more educative than one big exhibition on the lines suggested. No definite action was taken in regard to the proposal.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENTS.

FORBES.—A well-attended and representative public meeting, under the auspices of the Jemalong Shire Council, was held in the shire-chambers to discuss the best methods to be pursued in settling returned soldiers on the land. Councillor Sly presided, and a number of practical farmers and landholders gave their views. The following resolutions have been forwarded to the Minister for Lands:—(1) "That, in the opinion of this meeting, a local committee should be appointed, with full powers, to manage all estates within the district (i.e., shire area), with authority to appoint managers; that such committee be composed of two nominees from the shire council, two from the Farmers and Settlers' Association, and one from the Pastures Protection Board; that the soldier-settler be put on part wages and part profit-sharing for one, two, or three years, as may be decided by the committee, the men when deemed to be proficient to be allotted their own land." (2) "That this meeting forward to the Minister for Lands an expression of regret that his recent visit to Forbes was not suitably recognised, and that he be assured district residents would have been only too anxious to have discussed the important question of repatriation of soldiers with him."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

DISEASE IN HORSES.

A. Brown (S. Lismore).—(1) You should bring this matter under the notice of the local inspector of stock, with the view of that officer obtaining full particulars of the ailment, and forwarding same to head office, when advice as to treatment will be issued. (2) "If ten men start a sawmill on the share and share alike system, do they come under the regulations for sawmills. That is, are they required to have the boiler tested, guards on their saws, and other safeguarding appliances, if nobody works in the mill except shareholders."—Yes.

"OUR ENEMY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Creagh's letter bearing the above title merits the thoughtful attention of your readers. I am a broken-hearted mother who sent two sons to fight for their country—one is in his grave at Gallipoli—and I would thank God were the other by his side. Instead he has become a victim to alcohol, nerves and will-power being destroyed by shell-shock, and septic wounds refusing to heal. Too much money, too little restriction in hospital, and the terrible curse of "shouting" I attribute almost solely to my poor boy's downfall. If the Government will do nothing to protect our invalided soldiers, then it is time an abler pen than mine took the matter up and a public meeting be called to demand protection for those officers and men who parade the streets daily in a drunken condition.

I am, etc.,
PATRIOT.

REINFORCE YOUR HEALTH
Most people realise that life is an arduous campaign in the prosecution of which their "fighting force" frequently suffers serious depletion. "Reinforcements" become necessary to replace the wastage of energy and to ensure the "war" being waged with success. The first step to take to reinforce the health is to clear the system of the debris with which it is clogged owing to the sluggish action of one or more of the organs governing the functions of digestion and elimination. This will be most easily and satisfactorily accomplished
BY TAKING
one or two doses of Beecham's Pills, which act as a gentle, yet efficient aperient. It usually happens that no other medicine will be required, for Beecham's Pills, in addition to possessing valuable aperient properties, are also an excellent tonic medicine, which will be found to thoroughly "reinforce" the general health. Remember that "Staying Power" wins—that the battle in these days is more than ever to the strong, and remember, too, that nothing will contribute to your enjoying your full plenitude of vigour and vitality like

THE PAPER SHORTAGE.

"Herald" readers spending their holidays at Tourist Resorts will have difficulty in getting the paper unless they order in advance.

The newsagents cannot keep supplies for casual sales without risk of loss, as unsolds will not be returnable after July 1.

Before going on holidays readers should leave orders for the "Herald" with the publisher at the Head Office, and he will arrange with the local newsagent for supply.

JOHN FAIRFAX & SONS, LTD.

TO READERS OF THE "HERALD."

The shortage of paper is forcing upon the publishers of daily papers a new system of sale to the newsagents.

Hitherto, daily papers have been supplied to agents "on sale or return." In normal times this has been profitable to the sellers and a convenience to the public.

But now all materials are difficult to obtain owing to lack of shipping, and have reached unheard-of prices.

Therefore, as from July 1, the system of "on sale or return" will be discontinued till further notice.

In order to avoid loss, the newsagent must adjust his supplies to the actual demand. In this course we ask the co-operation of our readers. If they will place regular orders with their agents, or with the street vendors from whom they customarily buy, they will save inconvenience to themselves and loss to the agents.

CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA.

The progress of the bill for compulsory service introduced by Sir Robert Borden into the Canadian Parliament will be watched with great interest throughout the Empire. The indications are that the bill will arouse considerable opposition both in Parliament and the country, but that it will pass through the House of Commons by a majority of forty-five and will ultimately be accepted. Since the original Conservative majority was forty-eight it seems clear that the Government anticipates the loss of some of its regular supporters in exchange for the Liberals who have already promised their votes. Already they have lost one Minister, whose resignation suggests that the French-Canadians still persevere in that isolation from the rest of the Dominion which has generally been regarded as the chief obstacle to compulsory service. The occasion of the bill is stated by Sir Robert Borden in his introductory speech. Canada has bound herself by a twofold obligation for the currency of the war. The pledge to raise half a million men was given more than a year ago, and like our own offer of the last man and the last shilling was welcomed by the whole community. The losses incurred by the Canadian divisions have given the pledge a new form, for Ministers are faced with the impossibility of maintaining four divisions at their present strength by voluntary enlistment. In addition to the despatch of troops oversea, Canada has to maintain large numbers of men in factory work and in agriculture, and has endeavoured to do so by a scheme of voluntary national service similar to that introduced in England at the end of last year. The Government acknowledges that the abandonment of any of these industries would be almost as disastrous as the failure of reinforcements. But the maintenance of reinforcements is absolutely necessary. The Government estimates that for this purpose it will need seventy thousand men in seven months, and it proposes to take them by selecting men for the work each is best fitted for in the classes provided by the Militia Act, instead of by using the haphazard ballot system hitherto in force.

The history of Canada in the war which Sir Robert Borden traced at the beginning of his speech closely resembles our own in its opening chapters. There were the same spontaneous outburst of loyalty and the same rush of volunteers. An army of 32,000 was shipped within six weeks of the declaration of war, and the surplus of volunteers was so great that another shipment of 16,000 men followed immediately. Canada had to begin with the organisation of her militia, under which she maintained a permanent force of some three thousand men, and gave a very light training to some 75,000. But the militia provided no instruction fit for an army about to take part in modern warfare. The first contingents were trained wholly at Salisbury Plain, but later contingents first at provincial training camps, afterwards at great Dominion centres, and finally in England. Canada at first did not specify the number of her volunteers, but during the first months of the war her statesmen, like our own, regarded 100,000 as a goal worth striving for. Like our own people, the Canadians first realised the tragic meaning of the war, when their soldiers became famous for an exploit at once heroic and costly. The battles of Ypres, Givenchy, and Festubert were followed by demands in the Press and on the platform of the Dominion for a great extension of recruiting, and for the closer relation of the demands of the army to those of agriculture and industry. Early in the war the Provincial Governments had co-operated under the direction of the Minister for Finance in a campaign to ensure closer production, with the result that in 1915 the amount of cultivated land increased by 25 per cent. In the same year 200,000 Canadian workers were diverted into the munition industry. The result of the crisis, or fear of crisis, was the national service scheme, which, though it was voluntary, in principle is the foundation of the present bill. It provided a register, and placed at its head the Director-General and the Directors of National Service, who had previously taken the control of recruiting away from the Dominion Governments. In all his efforts to obtain recruits from the beginning of the war, until his final pledge of half a million men, Sir Robert Borden had had the support of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and of practically the whole of the Liberal party. In his development schemes he had noted the unwonted spectacle of a conference between the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the grain-growers of the West, followed by their co-operation. In the beginning the enthusiasm of the Dominion as a whole was shared by the French-Canadians and a contingent of 36,000 was raised from Quebec, though not all of them were of French descent. But gradually, in opposition to the advice of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and of the ex-Minister M. Patenaude, a movement has grown up in Quebec which is opposed to further enlistments by French-Canadians, and professes itself irrevocably opposed to compulsion. Its leader, M. Bourassa, declares himself in favour of the separation of Canada from the Empire within a measurable time, and since he has the ear of three million people he cannot be ignored. For the present, however, the Government of Canada is more concerned with its task of beating the Germans than with post-war constitutional problems. It is a grave disappointment that the French-Canadian population have not shown the same enthusiasm for France as their co-religionists, many of whom have returned from exile to fight in the French army. But the example of the Canadian regiments may be relied on to inspire the enthusiasm which did not respond to the heroism of the French Republic. Conscription will appeal to the rigid nationalism of the Canadian people because it will enable them to preserve the identity of their own forces, because it is urged upon them by a leader who has confidence in himself and in them, and because they accept his assurance that he is acting of his own initiative without any external instigation.

THE MOUSE PLAGUE.

That the Railway Commissioners should be seriously considering the advisableness of trucking the whole of the wheat in the State to Goulburn as a preventive measure against further depredations by mice shows what importance the authorities attach to the plague. Even if it be assumed that this heroic measure would have the desired effect, due to the coldness of the climate at the centre selected, the cost of double-handling would be very great. As against this it is estimated that already 10 per cent. depreciation has taken place, and there is no knowing to what extent this percentage may mount up if nothing be done. It is clear enough that some drastic action must be taken alike in the interest of consumers in Europe and of the farmers of this State, who presumably will have to bear the loss, though why they should do so in the peculiar circumstances of the case it is not too easy to follow. But assuredly there must be whole-hearted co-operation if the situation is not to get quite out of hand. Labour troubles in re-bagging and re-stacking have added to the general confusion, and even now they do not appear to be over. Only as the farmers are helped, if they need to join hands against possible ruinous delay, can the situation be saved.

In some measure the trouble would be modified if shipping could be expedited; but this, at the moment, seems quite out of the question. The best that can happen in this regard is to do something for next crop. Meanwhile farmers are finding that the mice, not satisfied with destroying the grain already in the bags, are also consuming seed that has already been sown, thus jeopardising the harvest of 1917-18, which is being put in under the Government guarantee. There seems every likelihood of our having the produce of no less than three successive harvests lying side by side in the same railway shed by the close of the current year. The Railway Commissioners in their recent tour of inspection found no less than 7,000,000 bags of wheat on the southern line, of which 6,000,000 consisted of grain from the current crop; while the other 1,000,000 bags were part of the crop of the 1915-16 season. Never before in our history have we been in this position, either as to the volume of the grain held or the quantity carried forward from one season into another. All manner of schemes have been suggested for reducing the evil, most of which do not appeal to the practical mind, and weird stories are being circulated throughout the afflicted districts, counterparts to the snake yarns of the bush and fish stories of the seaboard. That some can regard this visitation as a fit subject for their wit in no wise relieves us of its seriousness.

The real responsibility for the damage wrought by this plague rests upon a series of past Governments who have talked about introducing the elevator system but have done nothing tangible till it became too late to do anything except at extortionate rates. In the early days of Federation this State had millions of money handed over to it by way of surplus Customs and excise receipts under the Braddon clause of the Constitution. But it never occurred to anyone in actual authority that portion of this easily-come-by money could well have been expended in constructing the necessary elevators, and so introducing the long-promised bulk-handling system into this State. Our unpreparedness has caught us in two ways. It has laid the way open for the mice, which are now destroying millions of pounds worth of grain, and it has placed us at the mercy of the jute mills, which are now charging prices which are phenomenally high. It has been suggested that the countryside should be studded with silos as soon as practicable, this being the first step towards the introduction of the elevator system. Whether this is a way out of the mouse plague is, however, open to grave doubt. Silos may preserve us against the mouse of next year; what we want now is protection against the mice of to-day.

WAR SAVING.

More or less sporadic movements have been set afoot in various parts of the Commonwealth during the past year in the direction of encouraging economy. Such an one has recently arisen in Victoria, and the Federal Government has at length decided to give it its full support. A thrift campaign is to be inaugurated under Ministerial auspices. Of course this means private economy. The ladies are to be asked to do without fur coats, and the men to reduce their consumption of cigars. All this is, of course heartily to be approved; but we should like to hear more said about Government saving. Ever since the war broke out the various Governments, Federal and State, have been spending the taxpayers' money with an apparent disregard of consequences. Never before has public expenditure been so great. We do not now refer to war expenditure from loan funds—that is inevitable. For that very reason, however, it is all the more important that other classes of expenditure which are not essential in these days of war should be kept down to a minimum. Everyone knows that so far the authorities have approved of individual, but have avoided public, thrift. Yet it is really a condition precedent to persuading the individual to save that those in power should practice what they preach. In no other way can they make an effective appeal. Of course, the authorities in one way have the pull. If the public does not save Parliament can increase taxation, and so institute a measure of compulsory economy. But in the long run the taxpayers, who are the electors under another name, are not without all power over Parliament. To-day they insist that the greatest possible care should be exercised in the expenditure side of the accounts.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Mr. J. J. Cohen, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, and Mr. J. O. Fairfax were the guests of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson at luncheon at Government House, Melbourne, yesterday.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson has accepted the position of patron of the Centre for Soliders' Wives and Mothers, Sydney.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor has received a cablegram stating that Sir Gerald Strickland and his family have arrived at Malta in safety.

Professor Macintyre, Moderator-General of the Presbyterian Church of Australia, returned from Queensland yesterday after a three-weeks' visit to various centres of the Church in Southern and Central Queensland. He left Sydney last evening for Melbourne, in response to a message from the Director-General of Recruiting.

Captain C. G. Wade, a brother of the Rev. R. T. Wade, head master of Barker College, Hornsby, is included in the next batch of returning soldiers. He was wounded at Lone Pine, and promoted for services on the field. He served also in France, and is now on extended sick leave.

At the last meeting of the senate of the University of Sydney Professor F. Anderson and Mr. M. Atkinson were elected as the two representatives of the University on the central council of the Workers' Educational Association. The Vice-Chancellor (Dr. Cecil Purser) and Mr. J. J. C. Bradfield were appointed trustees of Wesley College, representing the University.

Lieutenant R. D. Leslie, who was killed at Fleurs on November 5 last, was mentioned in a despatch from General Sir Douglas Haig for gallant and distinguished service on the field, and notification of this, together with an expression of the King's high appreciation of these services, has been received from the War Office by his widow, Mrs. Barbara Clare Leslie, Alva, Moray-street, New Farm, Brisbane. His brother, Captain W. A. Leslie, was killed at Gaba Tope.

Captain F. J. Robins, of Wigram-road, Glebe Point, who was wounded at Gallipoli and has been attached to the headquarters staff in London, will shortly return to Sydney.

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Sydney last evening the Rev. Richard Jennings accepted a call to the pastorate of Bowenfels. Mr. Jennings has been minister at Dulwich Hill for the past 12 years.

The Presbytery of Sydney last evening dealt with a call from the congregation of the Hunter-Baillie Church at Annandale in favour of the Rev. David Galloway, now the minister of the Bundaberg Presbyterian Church in Queensland. The call was sent on to the Presbytery in Queensland.

THE R.S.A.

An important statement was made by the Acting Premier last night in connection with the administration of the affairs of the Returned Soldiers' Association, arising out of a discussion which took place at a meeting of the State Cabinet yesterday.

"The association went to Mr. Hall (Attorney General)," said Mr. Fuller, "to ask for a grant of £3000, in order to straighten out its accounts. Already a good amount of money had been advanced to the association by the late Government, in connection with the payment of rent for their premises in MacDonell House. This amounted to £2870. They are now asking for another £3000, and also for a subvention of £500 per annum.

"The reports in connection with this matter by the Auditor-General and the departmental accountants," went on Mr. Fuller, "disclose a very unsatisfactory state of affairs, many irregularities, and a very loose system of management. In view of the request now made, we have decided that a full inquiry must be made into the whole position before the request can be entertained. In view also of the fact that Government money as well as private subscriptions are being spent by the association, it was decided that the Government should be represented on the committee of management.

PAPERS FOR WOUNDED.

Mrs. Isabel C. Burrows, one of the official visitors from the Australian Red Cross at the hospital at Oxford, writes appealing for newspapers for the Australian patients. "There are some 1500 beds, and we get a very large number of Australian wounded," she says. "We have had 90 new cases in the last four days. The demand for newspapers is increasing, especially for weeklies. We get what we can from the Australian depot here, but they do not anything like meet the demand."

ENGLISH MAIL.

The postal authorities expect that an English mail will reach Sydney in time for delivery to-morrow.

SHIPBUILDING.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At Parliament House to-day, the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) and the Minister for the Navy (Mr Cook) met representatives of the industrial organisations interested in shipbuilding, with the object of endeavouring to secure the co-operation of labour in an attempt to establish a shipbuilding industry in Australia. At the conclusion of to-day's session the Prime Minister said:—"In addition to the Minister for the Navy and myself, the manager of the Cockatoo Island Dockyards (Mr. King Salter) was also present. I set out at some length the proposals of the Ministry in regard to the establishment of the shipbuilding industry, and invited the hearty co-operation of the organisations represented, in order that the proposals might be carried out. Mr. Cook also addressed the conference on matters arising out of the proposals submitted by myself, and dwelt particularly on some aspects of the demarcation of work. A number of questions was asked, and after some discussion on the proposals, which were, on the whole, received in a most sympathetic spirit, the conference adjourned until 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, in order to give the delegates an opportunity to consider the proposals and formulate a basis for a workable arrangement."

Delegates were present from New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, and South Australia. The following organisations were represented:—Amalgamated Society of Engineers, Australasian Society of Engineers, Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, Australian Society of Progressive Carpenters, Federated Ironmoulders' Union, Federated Boilermakers' Union, Blacksmiths' Society, Electrical Trades' Union, Moulders' Union, Amalgamated Painters, Ship Painters and Dockers, Plumbers, Shipwrights, Sheet Metal Workers, Federated Ironworkers, Timber Workers' Union, Sailmakers' Union, and the Shipbuilding Trades' Federation.

UNION WITHDRAWS.

The Masters and Engineers' Association has decided to withdraw its delegates from the P.L.L. conference.

The secretary of the association has written to the secretary of the P.L.L. to the effect that the executive of the association, owing to the disorderly conduct, and intolerance exhibited by a certain section of the delegates at the annual conference, considered that the result of the conference would not be of any benefit to the Labour movement, and therefore withdrew its delegates from the conference.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

A large number of members of the Painters and Decorators' Union are angry in consequence of the action of the P.L.L. in expelling Mr. R. H. Adam, the union's delegate.

A general meeting of members of the union was held on Monday night, when the following notice of motion was given:—"That this union withdraws its affiliation from the P.L.L."

The matter of the expulsion was not dealt with at the meeting, on account of the absence of Mr. Adam, who was away at Melbourne in connection with the shipbuilding conference convened by Mr. Cook, the Minister for the Navy.

A special meeting of the union will be held on June 26, when the matter will be fully dealt with.

RED CROSS COUNCIL.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The monthly meeting of the central council of the Australian Red Cross Society was held at Federal Government House on Monday afternoon. Lady Helen Munro Ferguson presided. Amongst the others present were the Governor of Victoria, and representatives from all the divisions of the society. The council decided that, as the oversea demand for flannel garments had been curtailed, while the need of foodstuffs for prisoners of war had increased, it should be recommended to the divisions that branches be invited to devote their efforts to prisoners during August, and should be asked to allocate to the Prisoners-of-war Fund during that month all moneys usually spent on providing flannel materials, the sums so allocated to be forwarded to the Prisoners-of-war Fund, c/o Sir Edward Miller, honorary treasurer.

Reports were received from Capetown, stating that drives and other entertainments were being provided for Australian invalids visiting or detained in hospital at that port, and that the Australian newspapers regularly posted by the Red Cross were greatly appreciated.

The Australian Red Cross representative at Bombay reported that Australians in India were being supplied with comforts, and that a shipment of preserved fruits, milk, and other articles had been forwarded to Basra for distribution to the medical units in Mesopotamia.

The council agreed to forward a cordial expression of thanks to Mrs. T. S. Hall for her gift of a hospital for Australian nurses, which is to be conducted under the auspices of the Australian Red Cross, and is to be termed the "Mrs. T. S. Hall Hospital for Australian Nurses." The A.I.F. has consented to supply the medical staff, the matron, and the nurses and orderlies. Mrs. Hall will provide the premises, the food, and the domestic staff, and will act as commandant, taking charge of all domestic arrangements.

Lieut.-Colonel Murdoch, commissioner in London, forwarded an interesting report showing that work in England is thoroughly systematised. The four departments of the London office, with the lady or gentleman in charge, are as follows:—Prisoners of war department, Miss Chomley; inquiry department, Miss Deakin; hospital department, Mrs. Mitchell; stores department, Mr. Macarthur. Gifts of pyjamas, socks, undershirts, and blankets made to the British, Italian, Russian, French, and Roumanian Red Cross societies were most gratefully acknowledged.

The prisoners of war department reported that parcels of food and clothing were being despatched with the utmost regularity, and that acknowledgments had been arriving fairly well. It was thought that, possibly in the near future, the position as regarded prisoners in Germany might not continue as satisfactory as in the past, owing to difficulties of transport by sea and on the German railways, but, the report added, the people of Australia might rest assured that no prisoner would be neglected, and that every endeavour would be made to guard against unfavourable contingencies.

A letter from the American Embassy, Constantinople, showed that great difficulty was being experienced in forwarding supplies to prisoners in Turkey, but efforts were being made to reach the prison camps with both food and clothing.

The Red Cross Council is asking for gentlemen workers to proceed to London to take up duty under the Australian Red Cross Commissioners. There is a vacancy at present for a stores supervisor, and also for a searcher for inquiry work amongst the sick and wounded. Applications should be sent to the secretary of the Australian Red Cross, Federal Government House, Melbourne. Where qualifications are equal, preference is given to voluntary workers.

BUTTER SHORTAGE.

In view of the shortage in local supplies of butter as the result of North Coast steamers being bar-bound arrangements have been made by Senator Russell, Minister controlling foodstuffs, for the requirements of the trade to be met with butter from the Federal winter butter pool.

The price at which the pool butter will be supplied to the trade is 158s 8d per cwt, and those requiring this butter should lodge their applications with the pool committee. The New South Wales section of the committee comprises Mr. C. E. D. Meares and Mr. W. A. O'Callaghan, Government Dairy Expert. Details appear in our business columns.

"TOMMY COOKERS" WANTED.

A meeting convened by the Sydney Academy of Music and Dramatic Art was held yesterday afternoon in the drawing-room of the Hotel Carlton. Mr. Eslick was in the chair.

The hon. organiser (Mr. Oswald Anderson) read a short letter directed to the War Chest from one of the commissioners abroad, in which an appeal was made for money to purchase 50,000 "Tommy cookers" for the Australians in the trenches. The members of the academy were anxious to assist the War Chest in some way, and as the appeal for socks had been brought to a successful conclusion, it was suggested that the musical body should undertake to raise sufficient money to purchase the supply of "cookers" required. These cookers are in the form of a small billy can, in which each soldier can heat his food whilst on duty. The comfort of these "cookers" to the men, it was stated, could not be over-estimated. The cost of each was 1s 6d, and the money raised would be cabled to London, where it would be expended by the commissions.

It was decided to hold a concert, to be known as the "Tommy Cooker" concert, during July.

ABOUT THE WAR.

NEW P.L.L. POLICY.

Sufficient progress has been made with the annual conference of the Political Labour League to enable observant outsiders to gauge with reasonable accuracy the general attitude of that organisation towards the great problems which are the outcome of a world at war, and which are agitating the minds of thoughtful people all over the world. The temptation to embark upon more or less hostile criticism of that attitude is strong. It would be an easy matter to pull the P.L.L. peace resolutions to pieces. When a representative—a member of Parliament, too—declares that "victory is not worth while," it is very easy to retort: "Would you, then, rather have peace, with defeat?" and let the matter rest at that. With equal ease one can turn the shafts of ridicule and scorn upon the men and women who declare at one moment that they are ardent advocates of the voluntary system of recruiting, and at the next moment that they are champions of an immediate peace, without annexations and without indemnities. Reference might be made to the history of the Labour movement in order to show that the men who now control it cannot be compared, either as logicians, politicians, or even as citizens, to those who made it, and who secured for it a measure of public confidence that was an object lesson to the world. But is that the best line to take? Although the P.L.L. stands to-day a defeated, distrusted, and to a large extent a despised organisation, the simple, outstanding fact is that on the last appeal to the people of this State it secured the votes of nearly half the eligible population. The people who control the P.L.L. of to-day care nothing for defeat at the polls. With a few conspicuous exceptions they have never enjoyed the fruits of victory. Whatever industrial or social reforms have been accomplished they openly profess to believe could have been just as quickly and just as effectively achieved by a Labour party in opposition. Whether that is a logical position to take up or not, the fact is that this is how they feel about it, and all their conference resolutions, and all their public actions, are inspired and dictated by that belief. The first postulate of all who sincerely desire to win the war, and to see the great problems of the war situation wisely solved, is that the people must be united. Germany's crushing defeat would have been heralded long since but for the fact that by devious and hateful ways the German people were forced to unite behind those who drove them to the war and imposed upon them probably the greatest sacrifices ever made by a nation. By parity of reasoning it may be said that a German victory would have been effected long since but for the fact that the people of France and Russia and England stood unitedly behind their respective Governments in the determination to prevent it.

At first blush such a proposition would appear to be almost impossible. It is impossible, as far as the executive of the Political Labour League is concerned. Consideration of the war and its problems must be conducted without them. They have constituted themselves what they may please to call a committee of public safety; but they are repeating in themselves the history of their notorious original which arose out of the French revolution. Nothing is safe in their hands, not even their own positions. To-day it is one man's turn to be kicked out, to-morrow it will be another's. Even the ballots which they conduct are no longer secret. Voting papers now needs be shown to other members. No man is trusted. Every man is treated as a potential Ishmael. One of the most interesting developments of the conference has been the fact that quite a number of those who were elevated at the last conference to positions of power by the vote and influence of the "section"—they protest most vehemently to the use of the word "junta"—have been completely ignored this year. The man who topped the poll last year has not been given a position of any sort this year. Furthermore, the man who was last year pulled out of obscurity and placed at the head of the organisation as president was openly laughed at the other night when he declared that he had not sort to position for personal aggrandisement or personal gain, and he was jeered at when he said that he expected to be a poorer man for having been put into Parliament. About as times in all since the conference opened the "section" has exercised its block vote to refuse any discussion of its methods or to let the light of criticism in on its proceedings.

It is plain, therefore, that if any improvement is to be effected it must be with the rank and file outside, who know nothing of what goes on, except what they are told by the Press. Even this source of public information is attacked, and a violent effort is made to poison the minds of the men and women who vote Labour against it. A hundred voices are raised in an effort to convince the general public that the Press cannot be believed when it reports the proceedings of a P.L.L. conference or indicates the methods being pursued by the P.L.L. executive, under the domination of the "section." This "section" has now such complete and absolute control that it is no longer deemed necessary or expedient to hide the fact that it really exists. Its existence and its operations are openly admitted and boasted about. The other night a country delegate, an ex-member of Parliament, said he knew nothing about it, and doubted what had been said many times during the conference. It was probably an honest expression of opinion, but all he got for his pains was the patronising pity of the better-informed delegates. The "section" nominated a complete "ticket" for all the official positions, numbering 45—a president, two vice-presidents, secretary, 30 members of the State executive, two delegates to the Australian executive, and six delegates to the Interstate Conference. Forty-four of these nominees were elected, the defeated one being a lady nominee, whose place was given to Mr. Arthur Rae, about whom the "section" rallied at the last moment after, in a fit of pique, having removed his name from the "ticket" earlier in the sittings. It is interesting to speculate upon how long half the voting population of New South Wales will be content to take their politics from such a source as this.

When one comes to consider what these politics are, the position becomes even more serious. Whilst the conference has definitely decided against the continuance of the war, the larger portion of the delegates are prepared to cheer to the echo the sentiments of those who declare that a sacred duty is placed upon them to do their best in the interests of the I.W.W. prisoners now under heavy sentences upon conviction for most serious offences. It might be at once admitted with the greatest candour that the rank and file of the P.L.L., even as it stands to-day, is entirely out of sympathy with the doctrines and the methods of the I.W.W. But that avails the controlling body nothing. It only emphasises the fact that the men and women upon whom the P.L.L. relies for its political entity are being grossly deceived.

During the course of a discussion which occupied four sessions of the conference, numerous opportunities were given, upon resolutions moved by men who were not of the "section," for the delegates to declare themselves on the side of the Allies and against Germany. If the resolutions were not ruled out of order (by a most remarkable process of reasoning) they were emphatically negatived. Such is the organisation to which over 300,000 electors of New South Wales pinned their faith at the recent elections. It is time that the matter should be put plainly. No longer is it possible for the P.L.L. to claim that it is the one and only working-class organisation in Australia. The working class has little to hope from an organisation which takes this stand, and which conducts its business in this way. Let it be proclaimed openly that the first business of the P.L.L. is to secure peace, and then to trust to the anti-war education of the people of every country to prevent war in the future. Then there will be an opportunity to argue with it, and to show its supporters that they are being deceived. That is the only thing definitely decided by the conference up to date. It is the only solace offered to over 300,000 men and women of this State who may still be looking to it for a sound political policy and an honest effort to better the conditions of the working class.

STATE ECONOMIES.

The State Cabinet has decided upon several directions in which it is felt that economies can be effected without prejudice to satisfactory administration. It is known that some big matters, involving large sums of money, are under consideration. At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet the Acting Premier made a short statement which indicates that the pruning knife is to be inserted wherever opportunity offers.

The first matter to come under the operation of this determination is the establishment known as the Patents' Investigation Board, set up a little more than a year ago by the late Government. This office has been costing the Government about £2300 per annum, and Ministers have come to the conclusion that beyond acting as a sort of free patents agency, it has little opportunity of doing much useful public service. It has been decided to close up the office altogether.

The matter of the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the more efficient and more economical administration of the Public Service of the State was also discussed at considerable length by Ministers yesterday. Mr. Fuller stated last night, however, that no decision had been arrived at as yet.

Another matter which the Cabinet is considering is the continuance of the offer by the Government to make up the difference between the military and civil pay of officers of the Public Service who volunteer for active military service abroad. Ministers will not come to any decision on this matter until they are in possession of a further report by Mr. Hall, Attorney-General.

STILL ADVANCING

TRENCHES CAPTURED

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY

LONDON, June 12.

The communiques of Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig yesterday reported successful raiding exploits and continued progress south-east of Messines.

MONDAY, ISSUED 1.20 P.M.:—

There has been considerable reciprocal artillerying southward of Ypres and eastward of Epehy, where we dispersed hostile assemblies.

We successfully raided south-westward of La Bassee, damaging trenches and mine galleries.

We also raided eastward of Vermelles and southward of Armentieres.

We slightly advanced our line southward of Messines.

MONDAY, ISSUED MIDNIGHT:—

We continued our progress south-east of Messines. We captured the enemy's trench system this morning, in the neighbourhood of La Poterie Farm, on a front of about a mile. During the day we gained further ground in this area.

We captured seven field guns and some prisoners.

FRENCH FRONT.

MONDAY, ISSUED 3.45 P.M.:—

Considerable reciprocal artillery activity continues north of the Somme and in the region of Cerny.

GERMAN REPORT.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

ISSUED MONDAY, 5.20 P.M.:—

On the Dunes sector near Nieuport and east of Ypres intense artillery fire has prevailed.

We repulsed British night attacks west of Hollebeke and Vambeke, also against the pottery west of Warneton.

Our destructive fire near Festubert, Loos, and Monchy prevented British attacks.

THE TRENTINO.

SUCCESSFUL ITALIAN ATTACK.

An Italian official message states: Our artillery destroyed the enemy's complex defences at several points on the Asiago Plateau, in the Trentino. The infantry attacked during a violent storm in the direction of Mount Zebio and Mount Forno, and carried Agnella Pass.

We captured nearly the whole of Mount Ortigar, and took 512 prisoners.

We repulsed the enemy's attacks south of Castagnavizza, on the Carso, and took some prisoners.

MESSINES BATTLE.

AUSTRALIANS AND NEW ZEALANDERS.

General Sir Herbert Plumer, who was responsible for the preparations which resulted in the capture of Messines Ridge, has complimented all ranks on their soldierly conduct. The precision with which orders were carried out enabled the programme to be fulfilled to the last detail with a minimum of losses and wounded.

Witnesses point out that the complexity of the plans leading up to the battle allows only an estimate to be made of the part played by the Australians and New Zealanders, and discloses the brilliance of their achievement. Although Messines will be historic as the most gigantic artillery and engineering victory, employing explosives and a greater quantity of powder than any previously seen in warfare, the mighty concussions would have accomplished little unless troops had followed up to take possession of the desolated land. The New Zealanders have been given the most prominent mention because they were the first to enter Messines. The Australians do not grudge them the honour.

The Australians likewise had a definite part. They attacked and penetrated as far to the east as any troops. The English regiments attacked the northern half of the salient. The Australians and New Zealanders were responsible for the southern half. The New Zealanders faced the ridge at a point where there is the greatest rise, opposite Messines. Two distinct bodies of Australians were engaged. The first body, which has a long record of fighting in France—notably at Mouquet Farm and Bullecourt—acted as support troops behind the New Zealanders; also supporting the English upon the New Zealanders' left. The other Australian body was given a complete task, advancing unassisted on the southern end of the salient upon the New Zealanders' right. These Australians, who had not been long in France, won their first laurels. They attacked with wonderful coolness, and advanced steadily under the heaviest shell-fire.

WORK OF THE TUNNELERS.

They received special attention from the German batteries in Warneton and neighbourhood. There is not the slightest doubt the Germans were aware of the impending attack. Prisoners expressed relief at escaping. They said they were "glad to get out before the big tragedy commenced for us," and implored the Australians to be merciful. They were amazed at the kindness of their treatment.

Our guns had been most active for several days. An Australian officer says that, although he knew it would be a long day, he could not sleep the night before, owing to the terrific din and curiosity regarding the giant mines. Knowing that nothing on such a scale had previously been done, he was proud to know that Australian tunnellers under Major (Professor) David (of the Sydney University) and New Zealand tunnellers had shared in the great work.

This officer expressed the opinion that the opening of the attack—huge mine bursts—put the boys in good humour. The whole line moved forward in the highest spirits. The New Zealanders, having seen Messines go skyward in the great explosion, did not stop until they took the trench line east of the village, which was discovered to be a mass of bricks and broken walls, although some houses were still habitable, despite the ravages of many bombardments and the final mining upheaval. A few nerve-shattered Germans crawled out of the ruins and surrendered. The New Zealanders consolidated the position, and awaited the next stage in the operations. The second body of Australians on their right had already made good progress on the flatter ground.

The afternoon's operations consisted in taking two main trenches. Further to the east the Australian supporting troops advanced in wonderful order, up the ridge and through a lively barrage of heavy shells. They passed through Messines, reached the New Zealanders, and passed them according to timetable. Then the Australians jumped off, and carried out the attack allotted to them. The British guns continued to wreck the trenches which the Australians were approaching, resulting in the enemy not showing fight. The attackers found a few occupants. The Australians hastily consolidated the position, and they have been specially praised for the rapidity of this work. The southern body of Australians in the meantime completed their advance. The English troops to the north also reached their objectives, and by nightfall the line had been straightened and secured.

GERMAN COUNTER-ATTACK.

The only hand-to-hand fighting in the whole battle was when the Germans counter-attacked. The Australian machine-gunners easily accounted for the attackers who had eluded the British shells.

An officer from Adelaide declares that the men were just great. They came on in utter disregard of heavy shell-bursts. Not a man "ducked" or turned his head. Little bodies steadily plodded forward in single file round the lips of vast shell holes. He had never seen such broken ground. Hardly a square foot had not been touched. Everywhere there were holes six and twelve feet deep. It was heavy uphill work, but the boys stuck to it.

The casualties were greater during the last part of the operations after they had passed the village. The Germans, in addition to heavy explosives, showered shrapnel. The New Zealanders did not flinch, although after they had reached their objective they had to lie still and hold the line under a terrible shellfire until the Australians came through.

Unlike Bullecourt, the casualties at Messines were phenomenally light. Many are very slightly wounded. Mr. Beaurepaire, a Y.M.C.A. officer, who is convalescent after suffering from trench fever, says the boys with whom he came into contact were never in such high spirits. The Y.M.C.A. spent £400 in food and comforts for the benefit of the wounded who were still able to walk in readiness for this operation. In the preparations at Messines special attention was paid to the removal of the wounded. Experts were surprised at the speed and efficiency observed, thus reducing suffering and saving many lives.

Under the new arrangements fewer Australian wounded are coming to England. Those who have arrived regard Messines as one of the severest blows Germany has yet suffered, and more are sure to follow.

M. Tudesq, the French commentator, writes that six months were occupied in creating fresh saps extending two kilometres to the far slopes from the crest of the hill. The tunnellers dug nineteen pockets, stopping underneath a similar number of strongly cemented armed enemy fortresses. Quadrangular wells were sunk and crammed with the most powerful explosives, about 25 tons being placed in each. Everything was completed by the end of winter. Since January, German first-line troops were living above a slumbering inferno.

ENEMY CASUALTIES.

The Paris "Matin's" correspondent at Wytschaete states that the British casualties totalled 8000. He estimates the German casualties at between 30,000 and 40,000. The correspondent adds: The light batteries of a single British division fired 170,000 shells, and the heavy batteries 80,000 in one sector alone.

The correspondent of the "Petit Parisien," at the British front, says: The German commanders throughout knew that defeat was certain at Messines. Their chief pre-occupation was to save the guns without alarming the infantry. The latter were fooled to the end. The generals actually arranged a comedy of false signals for the artillery, to which there was no response. The guns were really being hurried to the rear. This explains why it was necessary to separate the prisoners in the cages on Sunday. One exasperated party tried to catch another by the throat and they accused each other of the worst treachery.

Replying to a message of congratulation from Sir Thomas Mackenzie (High Commissioner for New Zealand), Sir Douglas Haig telegraphed a warm eulogy of the New Zealanders, in which he says:—"The people of New Zealand have good cause to be proud of the recent achievements of their fine division. Attacking on a front of 1500 yards they crossed a most difficult piece of country in the face of strong opposition, especially about the village of Messines, and reached their objectives absolutely up to time.

"I cannot speak too highly of the manner in which the New Zealand division was commanded, and the gallant behaviour of all ranks. Their splendid spirit fills me with admiration and confidence."

THE AUSTRALIAN LINE.

Mr. C. E. W. Bean, official correspondent with the A.I.F., writes from the British Headquarters in France, under date of June 10:—

Since the counter-attacks by Prussians and Bavarians on June 7 and 8 came to nothing in front of Messines, despite heavy bombardment, with which they were prepared, the Germans appear to have withdrawn their main force to the next line, leaving strong posts, with machine guns, in various dents in the wide belt of No Man's Land, now intervening between the opposing lines.

Australian patrols last night had several fights with these posts.

Since my last message the Australian line has been considerably advanced. It is no secret that the whole attack has been successful beyond the limits of the original expectations.

GRIM UNDERGROUND FIGHTING.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, official correspondent at the British headquarters in France, telegraphs with reference to the fighting at Messines:—It was like looking down into the pit of hell from whence many tons of earth were buried skywards with a rush of gas and flame, and a monstrous uproar. I conversed with an Australian engineer officer who was contemplatively smoking a pipe. He said it was good to be in the fresh air again. The officer explained he had been working underground for nearly two years in dark saps under the German lines. Sometimes they broke into the German saps and men clawed at each other's throats in the tunnels, beating each other to death with picks and shovels, and were sometimes blown to bits by explosions. It was always a race against time. "No more underground work for me after the war," said the Australian, "I have had enough of it."

GREEK PROBLEM.

ACTION BY THE ALLIES.

EXCITEMENT AT ATHENS

LONDON, June 12.

There is considerable excitement at Athens over the arrival of General Jonnart, who has been for 30 years the Governor-General of Algeria, and was at one time French Foreign Minister. He arrived on a French warship, and it is understood he has come with plenipotentiary powers to act for the Allies, with the title of High Commissioner for the Protecting Powers. The French Minister is already departing on leave, and the Russian and British Ministers will probably follow, if General Jonnart finds military action the only solution of the Greek problem.

General Jonnart's arrival, coupled with the Italian occupation of Yanina (in Northern Greece) induces the belief that Greece is nearing the end of her tether. Nearly all prominent Venizelists have quitted the capital, and the remainder are leaving without delay.

The excitement at Athens increased on the information that several allied destroyers and two vessels resembling transports were cruising in the Gulf of Corinth. M. Gournaris is said to have actually asserted to pro-German satellites that the Allies had landed at Itea, but there is no confirmation of this report. M. Dousmanis and other Germanophiles are elaborating plans of resistance, but how much is bluff remains to be seen. Meanwhile General Jonnart has proceeded to Salonica, to interview M. Venizelos and General Sarrail regarding the exigencies of the situation. The view is strongly held in Entente circles that events are marching rapidly, and that perhaps highly-placed personalities will be involved.

Lord Robert Cecil (Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs) stated in the House of Commons that steps were being taken to control the harvest in Thessaly.

CONSCRIPTION IN CANADA.

A message from Ottawa says that the Premier (Sir Robert Borden), in introducing the Conscription Bill, reviewed the causes and the course of the war. Canada had determined at the earliest to do her part, and had not receded from that determination. On January 1, 1916, Canada pledged herself to raise half a million men. No opposition was offered to the pledge, which must presently be made good. Volunteering had failed. Canada must either recruit compulsorily enough men to keep up four divisions at the front, or allow them to become extinct. Men were urgently, insistently, and imperatively needed for every branch of the service. Seventy thousand men were required within the next seven months to maintain the Canadian army.

The Premier denied that the Imperial authorities had in any way influenced the decision. The only difference between the proposed conscription and that provided under the existing militia law lay in the selective conscription proposal, which would enable Canada to provide against dislocation of her industries and agriculture. The measure provided that anyone who, when his class was called out, refused to come, would be deemed guilty of desertion, and be liable to three years imprisonment. The Premier offered to receive any amendment that Parliament desired.

The bill provides for a maximum of one hundred thousand men in ten classifications, beginning with single men aged 20 and upwards. All men in Canada are assumed to be liable for service. Three tribunals will be appointed to select them, namely:—(1) A local tribunal, the personnel of which will be appointed, not by the Government, but by Parliament; all will allow exemptions for various causes; (2) an appeal tribunal, composed of Provincial Judges; (3); final appeal to a Supreme Court Judge.

The New York "Tribune's" Ottawa correspondent telegraphs that it may now be stated positively that the Conscription Bill will go through the House, although it may take a month. The supporters of the Premier, Sir Robert Borden, can carry any war measure.

While Sir Wilfrid Laurier is known to be willing to drop the Liberal leadership, it is extremely doubtful whether his followers will allow him to do so. There is no outstanding Liberal figure commanding such general support as Sir Wilfrid Laurier. No election is now probable.

It is reported from Ottawa that Sir R. L. Borden declared that should the war continue another two years, it was not improbable that German aircraft would have sufficiently developed to reach and attack Canada. The Premier added that he deeply regretted the failure of the coalition Government, but he intended to proceed the best he could without a coalition.

U-BOAT CAMPAIGN.

The Washington correspondent of the New York "Times" says there is a feeling that headway is being made against the submarines, tempered by the thought that Germany may have a scheme for a more intensive U-boat campaign. Officials are almost afraid to believe that the menace is actually checked. Some share the view of the London "Daily Chronicle's" Parliamentary correspondent that many submarines are in Germany to refit. Some observers suggest that the recent U-boat losses must have been heavy, otherwise it would have been possible for many U-boats to remain on the commerce highways. While the disposition generally is to suspend judgment on the meaning of the cessation of U-boat activity, there is a belief that the co-operation of the British, French, and American destroyers has had a bearing on the situation.

DARK PICTURE OF GERMANY.

Swiss telegrams received in Rome state that the political situation in Germany is darkening. The failure to conclude a separate peace with Russia, lack of submarine success, and military disasters on the French and Italian fronts, showing the impossibility of a satisfactory peace, have produced universal irritation and discouragement. People in public places no longer raise their hats when the Kaiser is mentioned. Adoration for von Hindenburg has ended. Von Mackensen and von Falkenhayn are forgotten. Government circles realise a violent reaction is likely, and are making desperate efforts to avert the threatened storm.

UNSETTLED RUSSIA.

AGITATORS IN KRONSTADT.

LONDON, June 12.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" writes:—The situation at Kronstadt continues serious. Agitators have reversed the decision of the local council to submit to the Provisional Government, and announce that Kronstadt is still independent.

A very strong feeling has arisen in Petrograd against Kronstadt. The Government are receiving telegrams protesting against permitting such open defiance of their authority. The Provisional Government has since issued an ultimatum. Kronstadt fortress for years has been the dumping-ground for the most worthless characters in the fleet, hence discipline has always been severe—often brutal. When the revolution broke out Kronstadt sailors and marines cruelly killed a number of officers, and maltreated others. The leaders are convinced that they are the best rulers in Russia.

A message from Petrograd says:—The sailors of the Dreadnought Gangut and cruiser Diana have passed a resolution, demanding that the ex-Czar and his family shall be sent to Kronstadt. This is the third time they have passed the resolution. They say that if the Government does not comply, "we will sail up the Neva and fight."

The Petrograd municipal elections are in progress. They are the first free elections held in Russian history by a universal direct secret vote.

SEAMEN AND PACIFICISTS

MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD'S MISSION.

The Seamen's and Firemen's Union, which has decided to refuse to work any ship on which Messrs. Ramsay Macdonald and Jowett (the peace propagandists) propose to sail for Stockholm and Petrograd, is taking action to secure an expression of trade-union opinion throughout the country regarding Mr. Macdonald's mission.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Jowett have signed a pledge, in which they agree that restitution should be demanded from Germany for crimes committed against seamen by submarines. They also expressed regret for the manner in which the delegate of the Seamen's Union had been treated by the British Socialists' Conference in Leeds.

Mr. Havelock Wilson, general president of the Seamen's Union, states that the seamen at British ports refuse to be satisfied with a written undertaking, and demand a special conference similar to the one at Leeds, at which a public apology should be tendered to the seamen. Meanwhile the executive would continue to move, believing that neutral countries would join the Allies in demanding from Germany reparation for submarine outrages. Mr. Wilson says that the seamen at Rotterdam at a great meeting upheld the British attitude.

A special conference of the seamen of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark will discuss the subject next week, and may prevent the German delegates travelling.

In the House of Commons, on the motion for the adjournment, several members criticised the Government's issue of passports to Messrs. Ramsay Macdonald and Jowett.

Mr. Bonar Law, in reply, denied that the issue of the passports was contrary to the wishes of France and America. France would adopt a similar course when the danger of meeting enemy delegates was removed. The opponents of the Government's action forgot the position in Russia, upon which the Allies' success in the war largely depended. The enemy had succeeded in spreading in Russia the view that Russia was only continuing the war for England's benefit. It was difficult to guide the Russian revolution. None could foresee the results, but the possibility existed that Russia would play an even more effective part than ever.

The new Russian Government, said Mr. Bonar Law, was trying to bear up against conflicting phases of revolutionary feeling, clearly realising that they must fight for their new-found freedom. Our duty was to ease their path. The Russian Government had invited representatives of the British minority's Socialists, as well as the majority.

Sir George Buchanan, the British Ambassador at Petrograd, reported that much harm would result if the passports were refused. Mr. Arthur Henderson (member of the War Cabinet), after his arrival in Petrograd, gave similar advice.

ALLIES' WAR AIMS.

BRITAIN'S NOTE TO RUSSIA.

The British Government's reply to the Russian Note regarding the Allies' war aims, states:—

We heartily concur in the sentiment of the proclamation to the Russian people, which has declared that free Russia does not purpose to dominate other peoples, or deprive them of their national patrimony, or forcibly occupy foreign territory. The reply proceeds: "Britain did not enter the war as a war of conquest, and we are not continuing it for any such object. Her purpose from the outset was to defend her existence, and enforce respect for international engagements."

"Another object has now been added—the liberation of populations oppressed by the tyranny of the Central Powers. The Government heartily rejoices that free Russia's intention is to liberate Poland—not only Poland, which old Russian autocracy ruled, but equally that within the dominion of the Germanic Empire. British democracy wishes Russia God-speed in this enterprise.

"Beyond everything we must seek a settlement which will secure the happiness and contentment of peoples and take away all legitimate causes for future war. The British Government heartily endorse the Russian acceptance and approval of the principles laid down in President Wilson's historic message to Congress.

"These are the aims for which the British peoples are fighting. They are the principles whereby their war policy is and will be guided. The British Government believe, broadly speaking, that the agreements between the Allies are conformable with these standards; but if the Russian Government desire, they, with the Allies, are quite ready to examine, if necessary, and revise these agreements."

The "New York Times" correspondent at Washington says a re-statement of the Allies' war aims will be the probable result of President Wilson's Note to Russia.

SPANISH MINISTRY.

Senor E. Dato has, according to a message from Madrid, formed a new Spanish Ministry.

AMERICA ACTIVE.

APPOINTMENT OF FOOD CONTROLLER.

LONDON, June 12.

A Washington message says that the Food Control Bill has been reported. It empowers the appointment of Mr. H. C. Hoover as administrator, and invests him with drastic powers.

It is believed that less than 10 per cent. of the men drafted for service will be entitled to exemption.

The staff officers of General Pershing, commanding the American expeditionary force, have arrived in Paris.

New York State is taking a census of residents between the ages of 16 and 50, and asking information regarding their special industrial capabilities, and will automatically enrol those between 18 and 45, who are liable to serve in the home militia if called on.

Lord Northcliffe, who has arrived in New York, stated in an interview:—"The War Cabinet has designated me as head of the British war mission to the United States, and has instructed me to endeavour to co-ordinate the work of British organisations here. We are charged with the task of supplying our war needs."

The "New York Tribune" says that Britain could not have made a better choice than Lord Northcliffe, who is admirably adapted for the work of co-ordinating Anglo-American industrial and economic effort.

It is announced in a New York message that a national effort is to be made to complete the "Liberty Loan" subscriptions within the next four days. The subscriptions are now £140,000,000 short of the required £400,000,000.

The Chicago "Herald's" Washington correspondent says that the United States is to construct and operate an air fleet beyond the wildest flights of imagination. A sum of £100,000,000 has been requested from Congress immediately, and within a year another £100,000,000 may be asked for. This is to purchase 10,000 aeroplanes.

It is reported from Washington that representatives of organised Labour, headed by Mr. Samuel Gompers (president of the American Federation of Labour), called at White House, and informed President Wilson that there was a great danger of unrest among workmen if food legislation were delayed. They urged the President to go before Congress. It is generally believed he will do so if the bill is delayed.

A despatch from the American Minister at Christiania, states that Norway is sending a mission to the United States, headed by the explorer, Freidthjof.

It is learned that Russia has ordered from America 500 locomotives and 10,000 cars, which America is endeavouring to arrange to ship.

TROUBLED CHINA.

The Chinese Acting President has drawn up a mandate for the dissolution of Parliament. The Acting Premier, Wu Ting Fang, has refused to countersign it, this being necessary to make it effective. A dissolution would delay the declaration of war for six months, and require the assembly of a new Parliament.

DRIFTER v. SEAPLANES.

The Admiralty announces:—A Dover patrol drifter to-day engaged five enemy seaplanes. Two were destroyed, and the occupants taken prisoners.

The remaining seaplanes escaped.

BRITAIN'S BURDEN.

Mr. Bonar Law stated in the House of Commons that the daily average expenditure for the first nine weeks of the year was £7,884,000, including loans.

AUSTRIA AND PEACE.

According to an Amsterdam message the Austrian Government semi-officially denies that a deputation of army officers has gone to Russia to negotiate for peace.

TEXTILE OPERATIVES' WAGES.

LONDON, June 11.

In Yorkshire 190,000 textile operatives of all grades are receiving advances of from 30 to 50 per cent. above pre-war rates.

ROMANTIC WAR INCIDENT

A romantic sequel to the case of Lieutenant Cameron, who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for stealing a necklace in Edinburgh, in 1911, has occurred. He was released on ticket-of-leave before the war, and was subsequently employed on important staff work, for which a large knowledge of European languages was essential.

The King has now granted him a free pardon as a reward for his war services. The French Government has also given him a decoration.

One thousand officers in 1914, including Lord Cromer and Lord Roberts, petitioned the King to pardon Lieutenant Cameron, as they believed he had kept silence in order to shield his wife, who had made a confession, declaring her husband's innocence. Lord Kitchener, therefore, allowed him to join the army.

GENERAL WAR CABLES.

Captain E. G. R. Evans (of Antarctic fame), who was in command of the Broke in the fight with German destroyers in April last, and was honoured with the D.S.O., and promoted captain for his gallantry on that occasion, attended a private luncheon at Liverpool, and drew penguins on the menu card. The latter was subsequently sold, and realised £1000 for the Red Cross.

The Canadian Government has appointed a Grain Commission, with drastic powers, to co-operate with the United States in marketing and fixing the price of grain. The Commissioners are empowered to seize grain from elevators, and to fix the purchase price; also to negotiate with the British Government.

It is reported from New York that the Republic of Santo Domingo has severed relations with Germany.

[The Republic of Santo Domingo is in the West Indies, embracing the greater portion of the island of Haiti. The people are descended from Spanish and negro immigrants, and number nearly 700,000. Under a treaty the United States collects the Customs, assists the Government to maintain peace, and acts as intermediary between the Republic and its foreign creditors.]

UNSIGNED PARAGRAPH.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The "Daily News" Proprietary was charged at the City Court yesterday with publishing on April 3 an unsigned paragraph referring to Mr. Simons' candidature against Mr. Burchell, for Fremantle. The name of the writer was published the following day, and the Bench imposed a nominal fine of £1, with costs.

WAR NOTES.

GAINS SOUTH-EAST OF MESSINES.

A satisfactory little extension of the gains secured last week, during the latest British push to the south-east of Ypres, is mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's report issued at midnight on Monday last. This additional progress has been made along the sector to the south-east of Messines, and the enemy trench system along a front of a mile, which has just come into British possession, probably stretched across the valley of the Douve River, the small stream which flows almost due eastward at this point and joins the Lys at Warneton. This valley, as well as the whole country around Ypres, is dotted with farms, and La Potterie Farm, which is referred to as the scene of this additional British gain, probably lies almost due west of Warneton. It is no doubt due to the fact that Messines ridge is now in possession of the British that this later gain has been achieved, as any earlier attempt to move in this direction would have been broken by the enemy's fire from that ridge, which commands the whole of this portion of the valley. The capture of seven enemy field guns during this operation adds to its value, but it cannot be regarded as a serious renewal of the British offensive in this region. When that will be witnessed is best known to the British high command, and it is quite possible that before any further push is made in this region we may hear of a revival of activity on the more southerly section of the British line. The additional gain, however, is a good indication of the ability of the British to make further progress in this region if called upon to do so.

PRESSURE ON THE TRENTINO FRONT.

The Italian communique announcing some new gains on the Trentino front suggests that the Italians are following the same general policy which was adopted by them during their campaign last year. This was at the time defined by the Italian supreme command as "a single and constant strategic objective, which was to extend our occupation along the more southern stretch of the Julian front by means of successive blows of increasing force, and to persist in a vigorous pressure on the Trentino front." During the present year operations on the Julian front have been extended farther northward, but this extension, as we have seen, has a direct bearing on the advance along the more southern stretch of this front, where the main Italian objective—the Austrian port of Trieste—lies. In order to interfere with that strategic objective referred to by the Italian supreme command, the Austrians replied to the first Italian advance made during the present year by a threatened offensive on the Trentino. This, however, led to nothing, and soon died down. It suggested, however, that General Cadorna had made no idle statement when he previously announced that precautions had been taken to guard against an Austrian move from this direction. Unlike the first Austrian offensive in the Trentino, the latest demonstration appears to have had little weight behind it. At any rate, there is no sign that it has developed beyond the comparatively weak attacks delivered during the first few days, and it is satisfactory that the Italians on this front are now able to apply that "vigorous pressure" which is expected of them during the progress of the larger operations on the Julian front.

WINNING BACK LOST GROUND.

During the first Austrian offensive in the Trentino in May and the early part of June last year, the enemy pushed his front well down towards the south, between the Sugana and Lagarina Valleys. Although he captured, he did not get very far beyond the towns of Arsiero in the west, and Asiago in the east, during his effort to force a passage to the Venetian Plains. His retirement in the latter half of June straightened out this big southerly loop in his line, but, although he relinquished most of the ground which he had gained in the course of his offensive, he did not fall right back to the front from which he had started. Since then the Italians have made further gains as a result of their policy of applying vigorous pressure at different points along this front. Although they have not yet won back all the ground lost they are gradually approaching their old positions, and are also pushing still further ahead on sectors not affected by the earlier Austrian offensive. The gains reported this morning have been made in the region northward of the town of Asiago, on the plateau of the same name, which is in reality the eastern half of the Setti Comuni Plateau, where severe fighting occurred during the Austrian advance in May last year. This is one of the sectors where the Italians are still winning back the ground lost during that offensive.

CAPTURE OF AGNELLA PASS.

Northward of Asiago the Italian front follows roughly a north-easterly direction, but the sector along which the three attacks reported this morning were made would appear to run almost due north and south. The Italians on this sector are therefore facing almost due west. Mount Zebio (5800ft) is about four miles north of Asiago; Mount Forno (6200ft) is another three miles farther north, and Agnella Pass, situated immediately on the border between Italy and the Trentino, is a little over two miles north of Mount Forno. The attacks were preceded by an artillery bombardment which is said to have destroyed the enemy's complex defences, and, although we are not told what gains, if any, were made in the direction of Mounts Zebio and Forno, the capture of Agnella Pass would appear to be an important achievement in connection with this mountain warfare in the Trentino. It should assist largely towards opening up the road again to the Austrian town of Borgo. This town, which is situated on the Brenta River, a little over three miles beyond the Italian frontier, was held by the Italians prior to the Austrian offensive of last year. It must now be under Italian observation from Agnella Pass, and a mountain road leads down to it from the pass. The Austrians to the south-westward of this point, however, still have a grip on Italian territory, and, as the strong defences referred to in the communique suggest that they intend to hold their ground there, we will probably hear of much fighting amongst these mountain peaks before the Austrians are completely thrown back across the border from the Asiago plateau.

UNCERTAIN RUSSIA.

The British Government's reply to the Russian Note regarding the Allies' war aims seems to put the case for the Allies very clearly, and does not appear to contain any contentious clauses likely to prove unacceptable to reasonable men. It is, like President Wilson's message, a most carefully-worded document, and, if there is any hope at all for Russia, these two messages should help her to arrive at a true understanding as to the course which she should pursue if she is to consolidate the gains which she won as a result of the revolution. It is easy to appreciate the delicate position in which the British Government stands as a result of the turn of events in Russia, and it is clear that German agents have not lost an opportunity to make matters worse. Mr. Bonar Law's references to this subject reveal the uncertainty of the Russian position, and his statement that the Allies' success in the war largely depends upon Russia should not be overlooked. Although he states that no one could foresee the results of the Russian revolution, he is apparently hopeful regarding the future, and his assertion that Russia may play a more effective part than ever may be more than the mere expression of a vague wish. However, the British reply to Russia shows that the Allies are not swayed by the desire to dominate other peoples, and that there is nothing in their war aims which can be considered inconsistent with the principles of freedom and democracy. Their offer to revise existing agreements, if necessary, should convince the Russian leaders that the Allies are prepared to make sacrifices in order to meet the altered views of revolutionary Russia.

LATE WAR NEWS.

BRITISH FRONT.

LONDON, June 12.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in his noon report of Tuesday, says:—

We successfully raided last night northward of Neuve Chapelle.

We repulsed raiders southward of Neuve Chapelle, eastward of Armentieres, and northward of Ypres.

ADVICE TO HOLLAND.

The German Publicist, Count Reventlow, in the "Tages Zeitung," gives Holland threatening advice. He says:—"The independence of the Netherlands is at stake. When the English reach their goal against Germany in Belgium, then Holland will become politically, economically, and colonially the plaything of England. On the contrary, if Germany retains Belgium she would have every interest in protecting Holland."

IRISH CONVENTION.

LONDON, June 11.

In the House of Commons this afternoon, Mr. Lloyd George said the present condition of Irish politics made a conference of less than 101 members impossible. As the Government desired to secure the representation of everyday life in Ireland, they were inviting country councils and country boroughs to send their chairmen. They were also inviting five members from each political party, four members from the Roman Catholic Church, the Anglican Archbishop, Presbyterian Moderator, and five representatives of Irish trade unionism. The Government would not choose their fifteen nominees until the other names had been chosen. The Government was also prepared to nominate a chairman.

Mr. Lloyd George closed his remarks with a warm tribute to the late Major William Redmond. Though from his age he could not have been expected to endure the dangers and hardships of war, he sought peril and privations with cheerful courage.

Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Carson paid similar tributes. Sir Edward Carson said the Belfast Conference had accepted his advice and had decided to enter the Convention. Major Redmond had died side by side with Ulstermen. It was a good omen that a solution of the Irish question might be found which would meet all the ideals of liberty in all parts of Ireland.

Mr. Devlin appealed to Mr. Lloyd George to release the Sinn Fein prisoners.

LATE MAJOR REDMOND, M.P.

An official account of the death of Major Redmond, M.P., says he had urgently applied for permission to quit staff work in order to lead his men. He was seriously wounded by a shell-burst while leading his men in an attack on the Wytschaete Wood. He did not regain consciousness, and died in a few hours. He was buried in the garden of a convent in Locre Village. Chaplains of the Irish and Ulster divisions conducted the service, and there was a mixed Irish and Ulster firing party.

MR HOLMAN IN PARIS.

PARIS, June 11.

The President, M. Poincare, when receiving Mr. Holman (Premier of New South Wales), said he welcomed the opportunity for thanking the representative of New South Wales for the very special measure of assistance rendered by that State in the war. Recently he had the opportunity, in the company of King George, of reviewing the Australian troops, and had learned with no small astonishment that 120,000 came from New South Wales.

The French people, he said, had the most profound feeling of gratitude for so magnificent a contribution to the fighting forces. He and members of the Cabinet had been witnesses of the continuous generosity of the people of New South Wales, for which they were most grateful.

Owing to present conditions, Mr. Holman's visit to the Australian front has been postponed. He will go there later from London.

Mr. Holman and Mr. C. G. Wade (Agent-General for New South Wales) visited the French front. Mr. Holman was impressed with the vigour and determination of the leaders in France.

BRIEF TASTE OF FREEDOM.

A message from Johannesburg reports that 40 Germans interned at the Lourenco Marques, the Portuguese town in Delagoa Bay, secured revolvers and overpowered the guards. Some fled to the bush, and others seized a brig, but a shore battery prevented them from putting to sea. These also fled to the bush. Portuguese cavalry captured the fugitives after two had been killed and eight wounded.

P.L.L. CONFERENCE.

THE I.W.W. CASES.

At the P.L.L. Conference last night discussion was resumed on the following motion, which was moved on Monday evening by Mr. Considine: "That the conference enters its emphatic protest against the scandalous miscarriage of justice in connection with the imprisonment of the twelve workers commonly known as the I.W.W. prisoners, believing that these men never had a fair trial, owing to the inflaming of the public mind by the Prime Minister and others prior to the trial, and now demands that a Royal Commission be appointed to inquire fully into the alleged offence, and with a view to obtaining this end the conference instructs all affiliated unions and leagues to form themselves into local committees to work for the obtaining of this end, and that all labour members of Parliament, both Federal and State, be requested to assist."

Mr. Deaford (Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Association) moved as an amendment: "That a Royal Commission be appointed to inquire fully into the I.W.W. trials, and that the conference instructs the executive to arrange public meetings and petitions in support of the appointment of a Royal Commission, and for the release of the twelve men now in gaol."

He said there was not one shred of evidence to show that the I.W.W. men had caused the fires. Men who had burned buildings for profit received two years' imprisonment, while the I.W.W. men got five years. The jurors in the case, he said, received £1 a day instead of 8s. Mr. James, who had defended the men at the lower court, was given a portfolio, and could not appear at the Criminal Court. The price the labour movement paid for turning down the conscription proposals was the imprisonment of the twelve I.W.W. men. "The labour movement must stand by these men," he went on, "They belong to the movement just as much as we do, although we may differ in tactics. If the labour movement does not open the prison doors and release these men, it is just as much to blame as Mr. Justice Pring and the capitalists." (Applause.)

Mr. Brookfield, M.L.A., said he would represent Mr. Considine, who had left Sydney in order to be present at the opening of the Federal Parliament. He could remember the time when it was dangerous to be a member of the A.W.U. Did any of those I.W.W. men go out to obtain profit for themselves? he asked. It should not be a question of whether they did this or that. They went out to fight the conscription issue; they belonged to the working class, and that was the class for whom the conference should fight. (Applause.)

Mr. Cullinane (A.W.U.) declared that Donald Grant had never done anything wrong. It was a scandalous thing that such a man should be in gaol. (Applause.) The I.W.W. men did not get a fair deal. A man of the calibre of Donald Grant would not resort to burning down buildings. If a Royal Commission were appointed evidence would be given to show that a man in the service of the police had suggested to the I.W.W. men that they were adopting wrong tactics, and should commence to destroy buildings.

A delegate: That's right; bring it out.

Mr. Ross (vice-president) said he was convinced that the I.W.W. prisoners did not get a fair and impartial trial. (Applause.) They were convicted, he said, on the testimony of accomplices, and that was not British justice. He believed that any fair-minded Royal Commissioner who did not suffer from class bias would say that the men did not receive a fair trial.

Mr. Campbell said the I.W.W. men were put in gaol because they endeavoured to smash up a system which was smashing the workers. The public should "get it out of their heads that the men were imprisoned for burning buildings." He did not believe in the I.W.W. methods because they were not scientific.

Mr. Morley (Furniture Trades) said he was against the motion in the interests of the imprisoned men. He could not conceive of any Government appointing a Royal Commission on a resolution which said that the men were convicted by a prejudiced jury. He was forced to take up the same attitude as he did at the Labour Council.

A delegate: We'll shift you out of that.

Mr. Morley: "And I won't be out of pocket if you do." He conscientiously believed that four or five of the men were innocent, but if he were walking to his doom he could not say that of others. Why, he asked, did the conference not fight for the release of the men who were innocent. The workers were not at all particular whether the men remained in gaol or not.

A delegate: They haven't had the facts before them.

Mr. Morley said he would advise the conference to vote against both the motion and the amendment. It was a period of war, and the public mind was inflamed. There would be a much better chance of securing the release of the men at the end of the war.

Mr. John Storey, M.L.A., said he was not averse to the appointment of a Royal Commission. Did any of them think that petitions and agitations would move the present Government on the evidence submitted that night? You remember (he continued) the incarceration of Peter Bowling. We went into Parliament with a majority. What happened during the last two elections? Was it not the exact opposite? Nothing but a phalanx of new facts would get these men out of gaol. He suggested the appointment of half a dozen careful men to collect evidence and facts to put before the authorities. They must either have new evidence or facts to show that the old evidence was so perverted as to bring about a miscarriage of justice. They were living in a country where the law was a very harmless thing if they behaved themselves, but a very awkward thing indeed if they didn't.

There were a number of hostile interjections at this stage. One delegate was ordered to withdraw and apologise for an objectionable expression directed at the party leader.

Instead of signing petitions to get the men out of gaol, said Mr. Storey, you should sign a petition here now to put a Labour Government into power within three years, and then they would get these men out of gaol. He had no sympathy, he said, with the men who fought them on the hustings, and abused them while they were fighting the common enemy, and then as soon as they got into trouble come cringing to the politicians of the Labour party to get them out of it. Adopt a rational course in this matter, he said, because any other will only defeat your ends. It was no use beating the air and wasting money until they got together some facts that were worth consideration. They could not alter the fact that there was a party of 60 men against them in Parliament, all of whom had made the I.W.W. their principal cry in the elections. (Applause.)

Mr. Williams (Dubbo) said he believed sufficient evidence had been produced to establish the innocence of some of the men. He did not believe the Government would do anything, no matter what further evidence was produced. No howling mob of jingo politicians should be allowed to browbeat the conference. He had no time for the I.W.W., but he admired their militancy and their consistency.

Mr. Arthur Rae said he favoured a request for a Royal Commission, but they should exercise more care in the wording of the resolution. He objected to the phrase "scandalous miscarriage of justice." That was committing the same offence of prejudging to which they were objecting. The fact that a man had been unfairly tried was no proof of his innocence, or that he would not have been convicted had he been fairly tried. He supported Mr. Storey's proposition, which he believed was being objected to because it meant silent, hard work, with no limelight.

Mr. A. C. Willis (vice-president) said there was a division of opinion at present among the working class about the guilt of these men. If the authorities refused further to investigate the matter, however, they would resolve those doubts. Turning to the crowd of men at the back of the hall, Mr. Willis said: "If you are sincere in your desire to benefit the workers, your best course is to join with us." He supported the suggestion made for the appointment of a committee from the conference to collect evidence.

After further discussion, the following resolution, moved by Mr. Arthur (Bathurst), was accepted in lieu of the resolutions and amendments previously outlined:—"That the conference appoint a committee of six to collect evidence in support of a petition to be presented to Parliament for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the trial of the imprisoned I.W.W. men." This was carried on the voices.

The conference adjourned till to-night.

COMMONWEALTH ENLISTMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Last week 859 men enlisted in the Commonwealth, as against 926 for the previous week. The contributions of the various States during the past two weeks were:—New South Wales, 377 last week, 337 previous week; Victoria, 179, 239; Queensland, 104, 121; Western Australia, 101, 122; South Australia, 80, 72; Tasmania, 18, 35.

THE RECRUITING TRAIN.

The recruiting train is about to complete its short but eminently successful tour through the Werriwa electorate. The recruits obtained to date en route number 65, of which 52 have been passed as medically fit. Lieut. Littlejohn, reporting upon their behaviour, informs us that such has been exemplary, not one recruit having been paraded before him for breach of discipline or insubordination in any shape or form. This speaks well for the type of recruit obtained.

The towns visited were Grenfell (where the train was met by representative civic enthusiasts, the Caledonian Band, and 12 returned mounted men with empty saddles), Murrumburrah (where a very successful dance was held), Young, and Wallendbeen.

At Burrowa a splendid reception was afforded by the Red Cross Society, at which a large Union Jack was presented to the recruits. In the afternoon a football match was played.

Harden, Yass, and Gunning extended hearty welcomes to the recruits. The Light Horse Band met the recruiting train at Goulburn station, where Alderman Wood officially extended a welcome.

Six recruits who enlisted at Bowral took train through direct to Sydney, where they have passed through the ordinary form of enlistment at Victoria Barracks.

Leaving Moss Vale after a hearty reception, the train arrived at Picton at 1.20 p.m. yesterday, and the recruits were received by Alderman Antill (whose brother, Brigadier-General Antill, is so well known to all Australians), Dr. Parry, and Mr. Kelly (secretary of the local Win-the-War League). A welcome was given by the school children, who, with the senior cadets, marched from the station, and escorted the recruits to the Town Hall, where they were entertained by the Red Cross.

The next town visited will be Camden, when it is hoped the numbers will be swelled. The recruiting train will reach Sydney on Thursday at 12.30 p.m., and will be met by the military band. The recruits, headed by Lieut. Littlejohn, will march to Martin-place, where a public welcome will be given, and will then be entertained at the Burlington for lunch, after which they will proceed to the Showground camp.

SPORTSMEN'S UNIT.

The executive committee of the Sportsmen's Unit have decided to erect a roll of honour to the officers and men of the various units so far enlisted, and also to those who enlist in the future. The board will be erected in the vestibule of a city sporting club. A prominent sporting man has agreed to donate a Balaclava cap to each man of the first unit, and various other gifts will be given to the men from time to time. Next Thursday week a concert will be given at Liverpool camp by a concert party organised by Mr. R. L. Baker.

BYRON BAY, Tuesday.

Mr. Kenney, secretary of the Teachers' Association, Sydney, in urging the formation of a district association, suggested also that the recruiting campaign should be assisted. The local association will include Mullumbimby and Bangalow.

PUBLIC SERVICE INCREMENTS.

In connection with the embargo placed, at the beginning of the financial year, on the payment of annual increments to Public servants in receipt of upwards of £300 per annum, the Acting Premier, Mr. Fuller, yesterday made the following statement:—

"The Cabinet gave consideration to the matter of partially or wholly removing the embargo on salaries of Public servants, and came to the decision that payment should be made for the financial year 1916-17 of increments and increases accruing to officers on salaries up to and including £300.

"In view of the fact that, owing to war conditions, the difficulty of securing shipping, a falling-off in the railway revenue, and other circumstances over which the Government has had no control, there has been a somewhat serious falling-off in the revenue, and it has been found impossible to meet all demands made upon the resources of the State; consequently the embargo has only been partially removed," added Mr. Fuller. "It is intended that, until normal conditions obtain again, the embargo will be continued. The amount involved in the payment of increments and increases, as represented by the decision above alluded to, will total £17,000. It may be said that certain increases proposed in connection with alleged reorganisation of offices will not necessarily come under the operation of the decision of to-day's Cabinet, all cases being dealt with on their merits."

INCREASED RAILWAY CHARGES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The new schedule of railway charges intended to provide an additional revenue of about £500,000 a year was adopted by the State Cabinet to-day.

AN ALIEN FINED.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

At the police court, George Scleinert, described as a Russian, aged 25, pleaded guilty to that, being an alien resident in the Commonwealth, he failed to register himself. The police said the defendant was a member of the I.W.W. The magistrate inflicted a fine of £10, or two months' gaol.

SILVER WAR BADGE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The conditions under which the Silver War Badge may be awarded have been announced in military orders. Officers who have served since August 4, 1914, and who have retired or relinquished their commissions, and men who have served during the same period, and have been discharged on the ground of permanent medical unfitness, may be given badges, provided their claims are approved.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BURNED.

On Sunday morning a fire broke out in the Baptist Sunday School, George-street, Parramatta. The building, which was of weatherboard, was soon destroyed, together with the contents. The loss is estimated at about £600. The building was insured, but the amount will not nearly cover the loss.

MISSING ESTATE AGENT.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The estate agent who went aboard the steamer Hunter on Saturday night, and was reported missing when the steamer arrived at Sydney, was Mr. S. Preddey, who for some time past has had his business offices at the corner of Tooconnen and Scott streets.

LATE ALDERMAN CATT.

The funeral took place at Gore Hill Cemetery yesterday of Alderman Henry Charles Catt, land and estate agent, of North Sydney, who died on Monday in his 57th year. The deceased was for 22 years a member of the Lane Cove Council and for six years an alderman of Willoughby. He was once Mayor of Willoughby and five times Mayor of Lane Cove. He was a keen follower of cricket, and in his younger days was himself a good player. His mother, who is 87 years of age, survives him.

KING GEORGE'S PARK, BALMAIN.

A deputation from the Balmain Council interviewed the Minister for Lands (Mr. W. G. Ashford) on Monday with reference to King George's Park, Balmain. The main request was for a sum to be placed on the Estimates for the erection of a retaining wall on the water frontage of the park. The council also put forward a claim for a return of the money expended on improvements at Swan Park, which had been resumed by the Railway Commissioners.

The Minister, in reply, said he would ask the Treasurer to waive any claim in regard to the resumed land. With regard to the other request, he could only promise to place a sum on the Estimates, but he was sure the Treasurer would strike it out. (Laughter.)

MURRAY FLOODS.

TOCUMWAL, Tuesday.

The Murray River passed its critical stage early yesterday morning, and anxiety was felt by the residents as to whether the levee banks that protect the town would hold. As the river continued to rise this anxiety increased. A newly constructed levee bank a little way out of the town broke, and several houses were in danger. Shortly afterwards, two minor breaks occurred in different parts of the banks. All business was suspended, and every available man was engaged in repairing the damage. After considerable work, a small bank was constructed around the first break, and the others were also repaired. Towards evening the river commenced to fall slightly, and it was felt that the danger was past. Men have been employed since continually watching the banks for signs of any of them breaking, as it is feared that heavier floods will be coming behind this one. The river is still over the critical level. Farmers along the river banks had considerable trouble in rescuing stock in the flooded area, but received a great deal of assistance from residents from the town.

The fact that the levee on the Victorian side broke contributed largely to the success of the workers in eliminating all danger, as the opinion is general that had this bank not broken the town would probably have been inundated. The Murray was higher here at the critical time yesterday than it has been for over ten years.

The Water Commission has been advised that breaks in the Goulburn levees have occurred at points known as McDonnell's and Lapthorne's, in addition to the breaks which were previously reported at Loch Garry and Coomboona. Numerous breaks and overtoppings of the levee are expected, while the state of the Murray indicates that a very large flood at Echuca must occur. The Ovens River at Wangaratta is 15ft 8in this evening, showing a fall of two inches for the day. The river at Wangaratta is augmented by the King, which, as a result of the heavy rain on Monday, rose for a few hours. The rise last night affected work on the narrow gauge railway, and the mail service is being maintained by tricycle.

Reports from the Kiewa Valley, in the vicinity of Kergunyah, indicate that the Kiewa and Mitta Rivers have started to fall. The Murray at Wodonga is just about at a standstill. The area of low-lying land is still under water. There is every probability that the flood waters of the Murray and Goulburn Rivers will descend upon Echuca within the next 48 hours.

ADA REEVE.

Twenty years have passed lightly over the head of Ada Reeve since her girlish days here as Robin Hood to Alice Leamar's Maid Marian ("Babes in the Wood"), and in "The Gay Parisienne" and "The French Maid." Thus it happens that playgoers will see her this afternoon at the Tivoli, with her large-eyed refinement of feature, spontaneous gaiety, and personal charm, as much in evidence as ever.

Since the war the actress-singer has devoted much of her time to Red Cross work in various parts of the world. She did not lay aside her patriotic mission on reaching Australia, but raised £5000 for the Anzac Buffet in London, by irresistible personal appeals from the stage. Moreover she supplemented this marvellous effort by visits of entertainment to the Melbourne Military Hospitals. At Caulfield, going from ward to ward to reach the section for paralyzed soldiers, this vivacious spring of comforting melody sang 31 songs in one afternoon, and even then had voice enough left to charm her evening audience at the theatre.

Thousands of returned soldiers in England, Egypt, India, and Australia having declared with heartfelt unanimity that Ada Reeve is "a jolly good fellow," The Lone Pine Band greeted this modest new-arrival at the Central Railway Station yesterday with a burst of that convivial song as the train drew up. "Spud" Murphy was in the band, one of Miss Reeve's many guests at her home in England—but that is another story.

Motored to the Hotel Australia by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Macintosh, and Mrs. Harry Rickards, the actress there explained that she had arranged to entertain four soldiers at a time for a month throughout the war at her house at Yarmouth—which is where the bloatera do not come from, being in the Isle of Wight. Spud Murphy was one of them, and his grateful remembrance of the fact and her recent hospital work in Melbourne, doubtless accounted for the crowd of soldiers who welcomed her yesterday.

"During the first year of the war," remarked Miss Reeve, "I devoted myself entirely to Red Cross work, but after that I realised I could do more by raising money, and I resumed my theatrical appearances. After a time I began special appeals in person from the different stalls of theatres for St. Dunstan's Home for Blinded Soldiers and Sailors, endowed and directed by Sir Arthur Pearson ("Pearson's Weekly") at his house in Regent's Park. Ultimately, I paid over £11,000 to it. I wish the home could be made compulsory for all our blinded boys in need of training. I wish I could interest Australians more in it. It is such a wonderful place. In Melbourne I met two blind soldiers back from the front. One was happily married, as merry as a cricket, could typewrite perfectly, and make baskets, and was earning a good living. He was from St. Dunstan's. The other poor fellow from Gallipoli had been taught nothing, but sat moping, a prey to sad thoughts, nor could I persuade him to visit London for this recreative training.

"Last October I started with a complete company of nearly a score of artists for Egypt. Colonel Trevor, of the War Office, secured General Sir Archibald Murray's permission for this invasion, and the Khedive gave me the free use of the Cairo Opera House, and free access to suite on suite of rooms and storehouses, filled with antique furniture, costumes of all periods, and scenery. We played there three weeks, and two in Alexandria. In between I visited all the 21 military hospitals with various artists. I wound up with a matinee at a huge skating rink, "the Jardin Rosette," when 6000 soldiers and sisters of the Red Cross attended. General Boyle, O.C., declared I had 'made history' in the land of the Pharaohs on that occasion. Before leaving Egypt I visited the General Hospital at Port Said, and I have gifts and souvenirs of similar humble endeavours to lessen the misery of war from Bombay, Calcutta, and other great cities."

REPATRIATION.

The Minister for Lands, Mr. Ashford, yesterday brought before his colleagues in the Cabinet the matter of the estates he has been resuming for the purpose of the repatriation of New South Wales soldiers returned from the war. Mr. Ashford was requested to furnish details with a view to further resumptions.

THE WEATHER.

Light rain fell in the city yesterday afternoon, resulting in 2 points being registered up to 9 o'clock last night.

BLACKTOWN.—The rainfall recorded at the Public school since the new year is as follows:—January, 470 points; February, 252; March, 60; April, 450; May 120; June, 32. On Monday 40 points were recorded.

PEAK HILL.—An inch of rain fell on Monday night, making 235 points up to 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning. The crops are already beginning to show up, and farmers are getting in further areas of wheat.

PORTLAND.—Rain has fallen for two days in light showers (an inch and a half having so far been recorded). Water for house use was very scarce, but the rain has now replenished supplies.

URANA.—There was a general rain here, and 118 points were recorded. This will secure a good lambing, and destroy the mice, which were eating the crops wholesale before and after sprouting.

YOUNG.—During the past two days 287 points of rain have been recorded. Some reports state that the rain killed about 90 per cent. of the mice.

Messrs. John Sanderson and Co. have received the following telegraphic advices of rain:—Belalie station, Barringun, Tuesday: "Further rainfall, 120 points; general over district." Kerribree station, Bourke, Tuesday: "150 points here yesterday." Calwarro station, Hungerford: "135 points rain."

FLOODS IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

During the past two days practically the whole of New Zealand has been in the grip of an unusually heavy, cold, southerly gale, accompanied in many places by heavy rains. Hawkes Bay reports serious floods, which have stopped the railway traffic and resulted in considerable damage to stock and property. It is still raining heavily, with the rivers rising rapidly. In the Meanee and Tarandale districts of Hawkes Bay the waters are higher than in 1897, when the flood level was a record. Floods are also reported in parts of the Auckland district.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

KANGAROO VALLEY, Tuesday.

A shooting accident occurred at Glen Murray yesterday afternoon. Miss Annie Tapier, aged 23, accidentally knocked over an old dilapidated rifle, which exploded, severely wounding her; the bullet going through her wrist, left breast, and finally striking her on the jaw. The wounds are not thought to be dangerous. The rifle had no stock, and had not been used for years.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Victoria Park will, this afternoon, be the rendezvous for patrons of pony and galloway racing, and a six-events programme promises interesting sport. The track is good going, and the transit service by rail includes special trams starting from Circular Quay and the Railway-square loop at short intervals. The first race is timed to start at 1 p.m., and the results may be anticipated as under:—Encourage Stakes: First division, Cadorna or Coming Storm; second division, Thelmafield or Paragarde. The Canterbury Park management is in the field with the programme for its June fixture on the 30th inst. The prize money totals 600 sovs. Entries will be received up to 4 p.m. on Monday next.

Our local correspondent wires that owing to the heavy rains at Tullamore, the Amateur Picnic Race meeting, which was to be held on the 13th inst., has been postponed until Monday the 18th inst. The majority of the horses entered are already in town, and as the course is expected to be in good order, a successful meeting is anticipated.

Our local correspondent telegraphs that owing to the heavy rain, the Coonamble Jockey Club meeting has been postponed till Tuesday and Wednesday next.

LATE LES DARCY.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

At a large and representative meeting last night of friends of the late Les Darcy, champion middleweight boxer, the Mayor (Alderman M'Lachlan) presiding, it was decided to perpetuate deceased's memory by the erection of a memorial, towards which £30 was subscribed at the meeting. All the sporting bodies of the Commonwealth are to be invited to co-operate in the movement. It was stated that the body was expected to arrive in Sydney on June 24, and arrangements are being made for the interment at East Maitland, where Darcy's parents reside.

AMUSEMENTS.

MISS MYRTLE MEGGY'S RECITAL.

Concertgoers who last heard Miss Myrtle Meggy when she appeared on a flying visit to her native city as solo pianist with Madame Albani, during a world's tour by that great singer about a decade ago, had evidently kept well in mind the charm of her firmly-based classicism of style. Accordingly there was a large attendance at her first recital since her return at the Conservatorium last night. This Australian artist has been placed by Mr. Verbrugghen on the staff of that institution, doubtless much to its advantage.

Miss Meggy opened her evening with Liszt's piano transcription of Bach's "Organ Prelude and Fugue in A Minor," and it proved one of several highly artistic interpretations in the best part of her programme—the strictly classic. It is really wonderful how much of the "organ atmosphere" can be reproduced on the piano by a player of power and sure technique, and this artist, besides the subtle gradations of sound in the prelude, admirably effected, splendidly suggested the thunder of the pedalling. The fugue also was finely rendered with colossal crescendos towards the end, and something of the majestic grandeur of the original in the terminal chords. Rendered in this way, the instrument more nearly approximates to that "mingling of the voices of tumultuous floods," a characteristic of the organ itself, than might be supposed possible.

Another highly enjoyable interpretation was afforded in the Beethoven "Sonata in E Flat Major op. 27, No. 1," wherein the opening movement, with the charm arising from the simple repetition of an escending passage in the bass in support of a most loving theme, was tenderly revealed. Mention should also be made of the elevated expression of the melody, as of some old Italian aria, of the slow movement, and of the fortissimo at the end of the Sonata, the whole of which was interpreted in complete sympathy with classic requirements. After the renewed applause had subsided, Miss Meggy revealed the many phases and imaginative allusions of Schumann's "Papillons," a title soon lost sight of in a composition of such diverse moods, and extended dimensions. Heaps of flowers were handed up to the artist before she entered upon her Chopin group of four Etudes, including the "Butterfly," the Mazurka in A Major, the G Major Nocturne, the popular "Valse in A Flat" (during which the pianist obviously tired), and the F Major Ballade, wherein she completely recovered her previous form. An enjoyable recital closed with a Russian group of much interest, including pieces by Rachmaninoff, Medtner, Scriabin, and Rubinstein, so that the more advanced school was not overlooked.

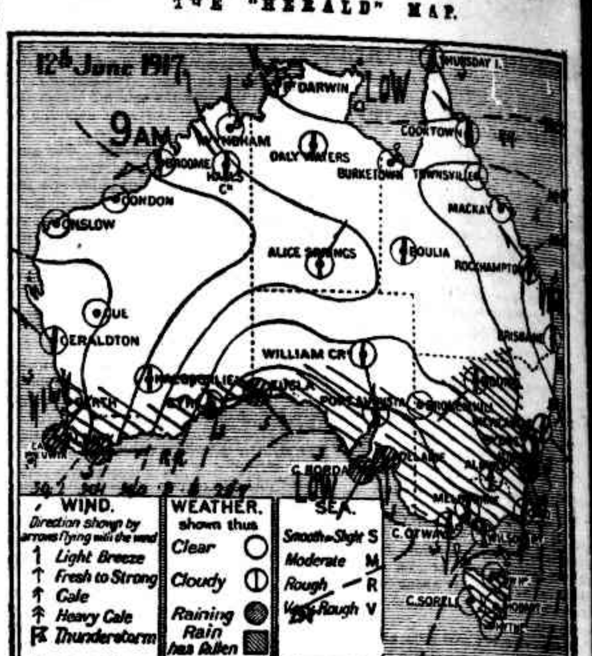

MONK-HUTCHENS RECITAL.

On Monday night there was a large attendance at the first of three violin and pianoforte recitals which Mr. Cyril Monk and Mr. Frank Hutchens are giving in the State Conservatorium of Music. The most surprising, as well as the most interesting, feature of the programme was the first performance in Australia of a trio for piano, violin, and violoncello by Maurice Ravel, in which Mr. Gladstone Bell, the English violoncellist, was associated with the two Australian artists. From first to last the interpretation of the "very modern" composition showed a concentration of desire on the part of the executants to bring out all that was intended by the unconventional Frenchman. Borrowing from Wagner the cunning device of an auditorium in almost total darkness the only bright lights during the half hour of "mystic music" were those of the pianist, the violinist, and the violoncellist. While in obedience to the printed injunction, there was no applause until the close of the last movement of the Modere, the Pantoum (Scherzo), the Passacaille, and the Finale were apparently followed with mingled feelings of amazement, amusement, and appreciation. Frankly and fearlessly "impressionistic," as it is in form and character, the trio may be said to have had a fair trial on its merits. In the nature of things some of those who sat in judgment must have run the risk of censorious criticism on a first hearing. But the majority of the audience in all probability took shelter behind the non-committal summing up of the cautious American, who in speaking of a theatrical production about which he was very much in doubt, quoted: "For those who like this sort of thing it is just the sort of thing they will like."

The individual contributions to the concert included Niccola Porpora's old yet well-preserved violin Sonata in G minor, and the immortal Bach Chaccone, played by Mr. Monk, and the Chopin B minor Sonata and six Chopin studies played by Mr. Hutchens.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

During the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday the high pressure had surged southward and had lost a considerable amount of energy. The centre at 9 a.m. yesterday was situated well to the south of the Bluff, N.Z. The tropical cyclone is now situated to the north-east of Auckland. Gales from the south-east, with high seas, are still blowing between the North Island of the Dominion and Norfolk Island.

The Antarctic disturbance has advanced eastward to the extent of about 600 miles, and extends from Eucla to Gabo Island E to N as far as Farina. The high pressure is not quite so energetic as on the previous day, and, consequently, the southerly gales in the south-west corner of the continent have died out. Further general rains may be expected, with northerly winds.

FINANCIAL.

LIFE ASSURANCE OF ENLISTED MEN.

Mr. H. W. Apperly, general manager of the A.M.P. Society, writes:—

Sir,—The paragraph appearing under the above heading in the commercial column of this morning's "Herald" is likely to mislead anyone who does not note carefully:—

(1) That the proposed extra is "not less than 37.50 dollars per annum per thousand of insurance."

(2) That the charge is to be imposed on enlisted men, and not on men going on active service abroad.

It would appear from articles in the American Press and from circulars issued by the American life offices, that the usual charge is 100 dollars per annum per thousand of insurance.

"The Spectator" (New York) in its issue of 3rd May last, refers to certain comments made by Charles F. Nesbit, superintendent of insurance in the district of Columbia. Mr. Nesbit assumed that one-fifth of all the men enlisted were sent to the front, and others adopted the same proportion. It will thus be seen that an extra premium charged to all enlisted men is a very different thing from one charged only to men who actually leave for service abroad.

The proposed extra premium of not less than 3¾ per cent. on enlisted men in America cannot, therefore, be compared with the extra premium of 7½ per cent. charged by the A.M.P. to new assurers, which only takes effect as from the date of their leaving Australia on active service.

Our comparison was not meant to imply any detriment to the A.M.P. Society, which is the only society in Australia recognising that it has a duty towards the men who enlist.

INCOME TAX ON OVERSEA TRADERS.

In regard to the proposed action of the Acting Federal Commissioner of Taxation relative to levying income tax on oversea manufacturers who do business in Australia through their representatives, the council of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce passed the following resolution:—"That we co-operate with the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce in requesting the president of the Associated Chambers to bring about as rapidly as circumstances will permit a joint protest from the principal chambers of the six States against the virtual reimposition, under section 19 of the Federal Income Tax Assessment Act, 1915-16, of the taxation imposed by section 15, but which has been expressly repealed as being both inequitable and inadvisable."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

At a meeting of shareholders of the Abermain Colliery Company, Ltd., with Mr. A. E. Jaques presiding, held at the company's offices, yesterday, the directors' report, which has already been published, was received and adopted. Mr. A. E. Jaques was re-elected director and Mr. A. R. Harwood was re-elected auditor.

Signet Sweets, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £25,000, in shares of £1 each. Its objects are to acquire the goodwill of the manufacturing portion of the business carried on in New South Wales by W. W. White and Co., Ltd., and to acquire and undertake the assets and liabilities in connection with that particular portion of the business. The first directors are Messrs. J. J. Joyce (chairman), W. W. White, and E. H. Joyce.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES

UNION STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

LONDON, June 11.

The majority of the British shareholders of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, Ltd., has signified its approval of the amalgamation with the P. and O. Company. It is expected that the decision will be practically unanimous.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The greater facilities recently available for the despatch of rice to Great Britain have resulted in an advance in prices in producing centres, and the Federal price-fixing authorities have allowed local merchants to increase quotations 2/6 per cwt. Locally-dressed rice was yesterday quoted at 22/9. One of the leading holders stated that recent sales had been made at a loss, and that the present c.i.f. price for Japan polished rice worked out at over £30 a ton. Tapiocas were also firmer, pearl at 31/ and seed at 30/ per cwt. There was a good demand for linseed in whole sacks, and sales were booked at 28/ per cwt. Blue boiling peas were very scarce, and were generally worth 18/ a bushel. Nutmegs commanded 1/5.

Canned fish of all descriptions claimed a fair amount of attention. Herrings cleared well. Private cablegrams from London stated that even if canners were able to secure permits to export it would be impossible for shipments to reach this market before October. There was some speculation in salmon owing to the unfavourable prospects for the coming season. Reports from America showed that the freight situation was serious, and it was said that some of the leading packers intended to quote f.o.b. instead of c.i.f., thus leaving buyers to make their own transport arrangements. Dried fruits were quiet. Currants, lexias, and sultanas were unchanged, but stocks of apricots were not so large as merchants desired. Prunes were scarce, and from /10½ to 1/ was paid for Australian samples. American consignments brought from /11½ to 1/. Dates were dearer at from /4¾ to /5. All classes of matches were better property. Australian wax matches realised from 4/7 to 4/7½, and safeties 4/6. Japanese safeties brought to 4/, and English to 5/3. Liverpool rocksalt realised £13.

There was an average inquiry for jute at about previous levels. Cornsacks for season's delivery were quoted at 8/, slings, plus war risk, and for prompt delivery at 9/6 net to rails. Branbags were firm at 3/1 net. Ex wharf woolpacks were to be had at 3/11 net, but ex store holders wanted 4/.

Linseed oil is becoming increasingly difficult to secure. Yesterday there were anxious buyers of the best imported brand at 7/4 and 7/6 a gallon. The Australian oil sold well in small lots in cases at 6/1 and 6/3. For the leading English makes of whitelead, in cwt packages, £76 a ton was demanded. Redlead was offered at £68.

OVERSEA MARKET CABLES.

AUSTRALIAN APPLES.

LONDON, June 11.

Two steamers have arrived from Australia with apples. The first cargo is composed mostly of Western Australian consignments, and arrangements are proceeding to despatch the apples by rail to London. The consignments on the second steamer are chiefly from Tasmania, and the bulk of the fruit will be auctioned. The keenest demand is expected as all fruits are very scarce.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day 20,500 fat sheep were entered, but owing to the flood in the country the actual yarding was about 13 trucks less than entered. The bulk of the yarding was of useful to good quality, with a moderate proportion of prime heavy sheep, not many light sheep of choice quality being penned. There was a good attendance of buyers, including many graziers, who operated freely throughout the day. Biddings were most irregular, and prices fluctuated very materially, there being some extraordinary variations in values during the progress of sales. Values for choice sorts were, however, on the whole better, and the actual close of the market was very strong at advanced values. Quotations:—Crossbred wethers, prime 38/ to 44/3, extra to 46/8, odd wethers to 50/6, good 34/3 to 37/, seconds 31/ to 33/, inferior from 27/; crossbred ewes, prime 32/6 to 36/, odd heavy ewes to 45/, good 28/ to 30/9, seconds 23/9 to 27/, inferior from 17/3; merino wethers, prime 29/6 to 34/, extra to 35/2, good 26/3 to 28/6, seconds 24/ to 25/, odd lots of inferior lower; merino ewes (very few penned), from 20/3 to 23/, inferior and low conditioned from 14/6. Fat lambs, 10,600 entered. The floods in the country, however, accounted for about six trucks being missing. The bulk of the supply was of secondary to useful descriptions, with a moderate proportion of good sorts and a sprinkling of pens of prime. The demand was brisk. Graziers competed freely for all suitable for turning out, and values of all classes were better, whilst prime sorts, towards the close, sold at rates considerably higher. Quotations: Prime 30/6 to 34/4, extra to 36/6, odd lots to 37/3, odd lambs to 42/, good 25/ to 28/6, seconds 22/ to 24/, inferior from 16/.

PRODUCE.

FIXED PRICES FOR BUTTER.

Under the War Precautions regulations, the following are the amended butter prices, ruling from June 6 (grades are reckoned according to the Commonwealth Commerce Act):—Metropolitan areas, New South Wales, Victoria, and Queensland, wholesale, per cwt, first grade 158/8, second grade 149/4, third grade 130/8; retail, per lb, first grade 1/7, second grade 1/6, third grade 1/4. Metropolitan areas, South Australia, Western Australia, and Tasmania, same prices each grade, plus the cost of transportation. All areas, in prints, ¼d per lb in addition, booked ¼d per lb additional, and a further ¼d when delivered.

DAIRY.

After the heavy business transacted along Sussex-street on Monday, trade on the whole was generally steady yesterday.

The supply of eggs of all descriptions was almost equally balanced with the demand; prices were unaltered.

Cheese, hams, lard, and honey cleared steadily. Increased sales of bacon were recorded.

A correspondent writes complaining that, although supplies of bacon in Sydney are heavy and prices have fallen, grocers are still charging as high as 1/6 per lb retail. Inquiries made at leading large retail shops yesterday, however, proved that choicest brands were being sold at 1/3½ and 1/4½ per lb.

Along Sussex-street yesterday ruling quotations were:—

Eggs.—Hen, suburban, new-laid 1/10, choice graded 2/; Northern Rivers, 1/4 to 1/5; South Coast and railways, 1/5 to 1/8; cold stores, 1/ to 1/2; duck eggs, new-laid, 1/8, case 1/4 per dozen.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

The Tasmanian steamer did not arrive in time to place consignments of potatoes on the market, consequently there was again a shortage. It was anticipated that arrivals would meet a firm market. Fresh supplies of maize were on hand from the Macleay River. Prime yellow was firm at 3/6, and white at 3/5 a bushel; other grades commanded from 3/3.

At the firewood sales, values possessed a firmer tendency.

Quotations were:—

Chaff.—Wheaten, prime £5 to £5/15/, good £4/5/ to £4/15/, medium £3/15/ to £4; oaten, prime £5, good £4 to £4/10/, medium £3 to £3/5/. Victorian, £4/15/ a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Brighter conditions prevailed for forage at Alexandria yesterday, notwithstanding that buyers were not in full attendance, on account of the rain. The supply was not as large as previous yardings, but the quality throughout was of a better standard. Wheaten chaff formed the bulk of the yarding, while oaten chaff was in smaller quantity than usual. In the lucerne section adequate supplies were available, and other lines were also fairly represented. Wheaten chaff found ready buyers for prime stuff at up to 5/, and oaten chaff being less plentiful, was despatched of more easily, but the quality was not so good. The quality of lucerne stocks which have been coming forward lately has fallen off somewhat, and the demand for inferior grades is not strong.

In the vegetable section buyers were not so eager to purchase as on the previous day, probably owing to the anticipated arrival of the Tasmanian boat with potatoes. Agents, however, were not prepared to sell at rates much below those ruling the previous day.

The yarding comprised 81 trucks of forage, 3 of grain, and 7 of vegetables; while the manifest included 121 trucks of forage, 22 of grain, and 15 of vegetables.

The following sales were effected:—

Wheaten Chaff.—Ex Millthorpe (17047), 4/; ex Canowindra (7018), 4/3; Bullock, Canowindra (16721), 4/9; Bradley, Coolamon (7811), 4/9; Iandra Station, Greenethorpe (17837), 3/6; ex Gilgandra (1142), 3/9; ex Trundle (12782), 4/6; Turner, Marrar (15009), 4/; (16758), 4/; ex Walla Walla (15400), 4/2; Bullock, Blayney (15210), 90 bags, 4/6; ex Coolamon (12760), 4/; (2135), 4/10 (part); ex Forbes (8129), 4/10; Gummer, Perthville (2707), 5/; ex Amaroo (19485) 71 bags, 4/8 per cwt.

FRUIT MARKET.

Although increased supplies of apples and pears were on hand yesterday, choice grades were exceptionally firm, and prices realised for special lots were in most cases higher than those of the previous day. Local fruit cleared steadily.

Quotations were:—

Lemons.—Choice 4/6, medium 2/6 to 3/ a bushel case; small and inferior practically unsaleable.

Oranges.—Choice 4/6 to 5/, medium 3/ to 3/6, small 1/6 to 2/; navels, choice 9/, medium 5/ to 7/, small 3/ per bushel case.

Guavas.—2/ to 4/ per half-bushel case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

Prices generally were unaltered at recent rates for stocks at the city vegetable market yesterday. Operations were restricted on account of the rain.

The high prices recently obtained for peas have induced growers to send in stocks, and consequently arrivals were heavy, and prices weakened. These remarks apply also to beans, which eased somewhat.

Ruling quotations were:—

Cauliflowers, from 1/6 to 8/; Melbourne, 6/ to 8/; cabbages, local, 4/ to 9/; best Melbourne, 6/; red cabbages, 2/ to 6/; lettuce, /6 to 1/6 per dozen.

PIG SALES.

The offering of pigs at Homebush Bay yesterday slightly exceeded that of the previous week. Buyers were not as fully represented as usual, but, nevertheless, bidding throughout was fairly brisk, and agents generally received prices on a par with those prevailing last week.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

Trucks ordered for forthcoming stock sales are:—June 14: 239 sheep and 168 cattle waggons. June 18: 167 sheep and 103 cattle waggons.

LATE MR. J. LONERGAN.

His estate is of the value of £22,313 18s 8d, of which £12,025 is realty. To testator's widow an annuity of £260 was devised. The residue of the estate was left to testator's children and grandchildren.

ALLEGED MANSLAUGHTER.

Carl John Mattson, a Swede, was charged at the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. King, S.M., with having feloniously slain Ethel Pearce, at Sydney, on May 11.

Sergeant Mitchell, who asked for a remand, said it was alleged that an altercation took place between Mattson and deceased in Murray-street, Pyrmont, late on Monday night. Accused struck her on the left temple with his fist, and she died almost immediately.

A remand was granted till June 20. The magistrate refused bail.

ALLEGED SHOOTING AFFRAY.

MINING.

RECOVERY IN HAMPDENS.

The market for mining scrip opened quietly on the Stock Exchange yesterday, but ere closing time the turnover had assumed normal proportions. Prices on the whole displayed a stronger tendency. Copper propositions came in for more general support than usual. Hampdens were favoured with a partial recovery to 27/6 at noon, and the closing price was 27/4½. Mount Morgans changed hands at a slightly reduced figure, but there were strong forward sellers of C.S.A. at the enhanced rate of 32/6. Westonias were inclined to harden, but business was restricted to Deeps, which moved up to 9/1. Occidentals provided exchange at 4/4½. Barriers participated in the general flow of prices, and British at 30/ showed a stronger move. Norths, in common with Junction Norths, also improved. A further decline in the London price of tin had no immediate effect on tin interests. Kampongs closed /3 lower at 39/3, but Vegetable Creek continued firm at 3/3. Higher bids were given for both issues of Carpathia scrip, but no listed business resulted.

On the London Stock Exchange to-day British B.H. (old) shares were quoted, b 33/3, s 34/3; B.H. Proprietary, b 44/3, s 45/3; Waihi, b 33/3, s 34/3.

NOTES.

The west crosscut at No. 2 level of the Mount David gold mine has been started at a point 6ft from the plat, and extended 16ft in soft schist, but no porphyry has yet been encountered.

Our Melbourne correspondent states that North Broken Hill during the week treated 4700 tons of crude ore, assaying 16.6 per cent. lead, 8.8oz silver, and 13.1 per cent. zinc, producing 900 tons concentrates, assaying 65.0 per cent. lead, 35oz silver, and 6.8 per cent. zinc.

Our Launceston correspondent states that very rich ore is being won from No. 49 stope, 1100ft level, North Lyell, which is the nearest workings to the Lyell Blocks. At 1000ft level, North Lyell, the big ore-body on the north-western side is maintaining its value. Very good ore continues to be met with in the north drive at 925ft level; while from Mount Lyell the output of pyrites is being maintained. The second furnace was blown in on Monday, and it was expected they would be able to keep two furnaces going without interruption, as the labour supply was getting back to conditions prevailing prior to the industrial trouble.

MINE MANAGERS' REPORTS.

The B.H. Proprietary report for the four weeks ended May 30 states that a record quantity of 35,002 tons of ironstone was quarried at Iron Knob, and 2000 tons of limestone were shipped from Devonport to Newcastle during the period. At Broken Hill 15,655 tons of crude ore was raised, including 1904 tons of oxidised material. The diamond drill operating at the 1300 feet level bored 204ft in an easterly direction in country rock. The shaft at the bottom of the open cut north of M'Bryde's shaft was sunk 58ft to a total of 158ft. At the ore-dressing mill 13,737 tons of crude ore were treated, producing 2321 tons of lead concentrates and 2746 tons of slimes. The zinc separation plant produced 1103 tons of zinc concentrates, assaying 46.95 per cent. zinc, 5.94 per cent. lead, and 13.49oz silver. At the slime flotation plant 1196 tons of slime lead concentrates were produced, assaying 9.42 per cent. zinc, 60.93 per cent. lead, and 83.50oz silver per ton, also 2950 tons of slime zinc concentrates, assaying 46.46 per cent. zinc.

The B.H. Proprietary Block 10 report for fortnight ended June 6 states:—415ft level: E. crosscut at 220ft. S. off N. drive to 32ft through ore assaying 1.89oz silver, 10 per cent. lead, and 9.3 per cent. zinc. 515ft level: S. drive off winze 58ift S. (west lode) to 652ft, through ore assaying 3oz silver, 15.1 per cent. lead, and [illegible].4 per cent. zinc. At 1015ft level Repairing N. drive.

And so it is that every month fresh flattery is being heaped upon the INDIAN, not only by its riders, but even by its competitors.

HABERFIELD GARDEN SUBURB.
HABERFIELD GARDEN SUBURB.

Our Building Operations during the past 12 years at Haberfield have placed us in the singular position of knowing to a nicety the requirements of home buyers. Our efforts are always concentrated on the idea of producing the latest and the best that can be offered at reasonable prices.

These times, more particularly than any other, require the strictest view of economy. It will be first conceded that ownership of property is preferable to rent-paying, and conjointly with this is the necessity that the property you buy is not only sound in construction but reasonable in price.

With its developments under Town Planning Principles, Haberfield, with its array of cottage homes (each with its artistic garden and fronting avenue-like streets), presents a pleasing picture, alike to the resident as to the visitor.

Our recent examples will show you the true Haberfield type of residence, and we would very much like you to inspect

OUR £1165 BUNGALOW.

Its position is most convenient, and it has also an elevation sufficient to command views of the surrounding neighbourhood. A wide entrance hall gives access to spacious drawing and dining rooms; the 3 bedrooms are roomy and artistic. The interior furnishings throughout are of the latest style. These are tiled bathroom, domestic offices, electric light, and there is a lounge verandah in front and wide one at rear suitable for sleeping out. The land with this Bungalow is quite sufficient to set it off to advantage.

OUR HABERFIELD TERMS
are a decided advantage on the principle of a small deposit and convenient instalments, either weekly or monthly, to suit purchaser. Rarely are better terms obtained than those that we are able to offer in connection with Haberfield.

Your convenience is ours and appointment to inspect these homes could be arranged at any time. Call in us this afternoon—our office will be open until 6 o'clock—and our Manager, in attendance with motor car, will give you all particulars that you would require.

STATIONS, FARMS, AND STOCK.

GOVERNMENT PURCHASE.
It was officially announced in Tuesday's S.M.H. that "the Grantham Poultry Farm, fronting Seven Hills-road, about 20 miles from Sydney, has been purchased by the Government for £10,000." It is to be used for stocking soldiers' farms and as a training farm for partially incapacitated men. The Minister for Works, together with others who know the property, declare the Government has made a good bargain. Facing this same Seven Hills-road, and with city water actually passing it, is "FRESAIR ESTATE." Little Farmlets are for sale here, from one to ten acres, at very low prices indeed—from £30 acre, in fact, and terms from 10s month. Mark the present prices, and note the jump values immediately take. The Department's Experts have decided that here, right alongside FRESAIR ESTATE, is the very place for Poultry Farming. THE COMMONWEALTH
TYPISTS' EXAMINATION,
JULY 21.
Here are two cogent, convincing reasons why you should enrol with us and compete for this important examination.
IT IS AN EXAMINATION THAT RETURNS A SPLENDID DIVIDEND TO SUCCESSFUL COMPETITORS. STOTT AND HOARE'S STUDENTS ARE SPECIALLY TRAINED, AND THE EFFICIENCY OF THAT TRAINING SHOWS ITSELF IN RESULTS.
Herewith we give the results of the last four examinations, which show conclusively the supreme value of Stott and Hoare's Tuition.
1912.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 14 out of 24, including top and second places.
1913.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 19 out of 20.
1914.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 9 out of 11, including 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th places.
1915.—No examination held.
1916.—Stott and Hoare Passes: 26 out of 34, including top place.
Remember this is a "worth-while" examination, that confers distinct benefits in the way of good salaries on the successful candidates.
Stott and Hoare's Business College does not enter students for examinations where success is purely nominal. Start your training with the College that helps its students to practical success.
